In the Farming West.
Lady Skyline's Eggs.

What Are Our Standards.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1927)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 7. BITTER weather in this Western country, where trains climb over the continent's rocky backbone. A blizzard sweeping out of the North through Montana, Wyoming, Northern and Eastern Colorado wiped out memories of that "unseasonable hot weather." Fourteen degrees below zero is the record in some places. Examining car wheels at Las Vegas this morning, knocked great masses of ice from the trucks. This is printed to please dwellers in California, Florida and along the Gulf coast. When we are warm it is pleasant to hear of cold weather. Cotton Mather said bliss in heaven would be greatly increased by looking down at the torment of friends and acquaintances in hell.

OUT here men are interested in the earth. One man in the smoking room tells another "when you plant radishes below the frost line they will keep coming up for three years. I planted turnips below frost and they came up for seven years." That interested the other man.

ANOTHER shows his neighbor pictures of modern machinery used on Zuckerman Brothers potato farm in San Joaquin county, California. One man drives a huge machine and gathering three rows of potatoes at once. One man in a small tractor pulls a wagon beside the potato digger, which delivered potatoes into the wagon as they are dug and gathered. Two men do the work of 40 working men under old methods. The Zuckerman's gather crops economically and also raise gigantic crops, holding the world's record for potato production—497½ sacks of potatoes from one acre. Eight acres last year yielded 427,171 pounds of potatoes.

SUCH farming will do more "to help the farmer" than anything that McNary and Haugen can invent. When farmers apply to farming methods what Ford applies in his factory, they will get rich.

EVEN editors are farm enthusiasts here. F. G. Bonfils, whose Denver Post covers many states, got more excited about one hen than he ever did about his newspaper. The hen, Lady Skyline, named in honor of Colorado's high altitude, laid 235 eggs in 235 days. Bonfils recently sent twelve of her eggs to President Coolidge, insured the hen's life for $1,000 and brought her to Denver, "so the people may know," that Colorado has the best hens as well as the best climate.

MEN out here discuss President Coolidge's message and like it. They say this is a business country, he is a business President and sends in business messages, about things that the country needs. The majority of them think the President will not run again, and are sorry.

A FEW words in the President's message say "We are at peace. The country as a whole has had a prosperity never exceeded. Wages are at their highest range, employment is plentiful."

If that condition lasts, as it probably will, until Election Day, 1928, what chance is there of putting out the Republican party? Could the Angel Gabriel himself win, if he ran on the Democratic ticket with prosperity and 7,000,000 plurality against him?

THE Rev. Dr. Frank W. Bible, missionary, says "Atheism is spreading in America and in the East and is literally gripping the world." He thinks the coming fight will be between Christianity and Atheism, Asia becoming Christian or Atheist; the first step will be a uniting of all Protestant churches.

It is difficult to understand how Atheism can "grip the world" With WHAT does it grip? Atheism is mere denial and foolish. There never was a real Atheist. No man can be an Atheist who admits that everything of importance is beyond his comprehension, that the universe is sustained and directed by a power whose existence he feels but cannot define. Only an idiot would really be an Atheist. Only a fool or bigot would insist that others accept his particular definition of God and his right to interpret omnipotence and omniscience.

THIS country, urged to recognize the Russian government, because we do business with Russia, says no: Russia must accept our standards before we recognize Russia. The next step would be to let Russia know what our standards are. Are they represented by our dominating corporation, by our lynchings, by our bootlegging, by some of our recent elections to the Senate for cash, by our inability to do anything but talk when powerful men steal a government's oil supply? What are our standards exactly?

FREDERICK R. BABCOCK DIES AFTER OPERATION

Boy Farmer Kills Mother

SLAYS HUSBAND, THEN GOES TO BRIDGE PARTY

VENGEFUL

Andy Dyken, 15, his Russian peasant blood boiling under what he believed ill treatment from his father, bought a shotgun and charged it to the family account.

HELPLESS WITNESSES

The boy's younger brother Dan, 10, and his grandfather rushed to the door when they heard the first shot. Before they could reach Mrs. Dyken they heard the second shot and saw the father fall. They saw Andy, with the gun in his hand, turn and ran to the hills.

VICTIM OF WRATH

"I'd do it again," Andy told the posse which captured him. "I don't care about Pop, but I'm sorry I killed Mom."

KILLED MOTHER BY MISTAKE

He waited outside the door of his home at nightfall with the gun in his hand. His mother was the first to come out. In the blackness, as she walked toward the barn, seeking him, he mistook her for his father and blazed away. She fell, dying. The father, attracted by the shot, rushed out. As he knelt beside his dying wife, the boy reloaded his gun and shot a second time. He fled, leaving the father seriously wounded. "X" marks spot where the shooting took place. Inset photograph is of the dead woman. Andy is now in the St. Clairsville, O., jail, a few miles from the farm where the tragedy occurred. He was found yesterday hiding in a straw stack on the Dyken farm only 200 yards from the place of the shooting.

Dyken, who appeared badly frightened when captured, was defiant later when questioned at the jail. He declared he wanted to kill his father for the way he had been treated.

WEEPS WHEN HELD

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A restless night in a county jail cell, smoking cigarets for solace, was 21-year-old Velma West's preparation for facing a charge of husband slaying.

Mrs. West signed a confession yesterday that she had slain her husband, Thomas E. West, 26, Tuesday night, at their home in Perry, O., near here, using a claw hammer and a table leg for weapons; and that she had then motored to Cleveland to keep a bridge party engagement. The slaying, she said, followed a quarrel.

Mrs. West pleaded not guilty on a charge of first degree murder, when she was arraigned today.

As the girl entered her plea her voice choked with sobs and she cried openly as she stood before the bar. At the conclusion of the brief arraignment she had to be supported as she returned from the municipal court to her jail cell.

Preliminary hearing was set for December 12.

The arrest was made of Mrs. West at the Cleveland home of her mother.

LILLIENDAHL JURY, OUT 21 HOURS, DEADLOCKED

COURTHOUSE, MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 8.—After 21 hours of deliberation, the jury of five women and seven men trying Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl and her alleged paramour, Willis Beach, for the murder of the woman's aged husband, Dr. William Lilliendahl, was still deadlocked at 3 p. m. today. The jury retired at 5:34 p. m. yesterday.

Called into the courtroom by Justice Campbell, the forewoman, Mrs. Carrie Calkins, anounced this morning that the jurors had been unable to agree.

They were sent back to continue their deliberations. The court intimated the jury would be discharged if no verdict was reached by night.

Many rumors were going around. Some had it that the jury stood 10 to 2 for conviction; others that there was a wrangle over possible compromise on a verdict of guilty of second degree murder; others that the vote was in favor of acquittal. But there was no possible way of obtaining reliable information. The jury was kept closely guarded.

Both the defendants spent the night in their accustomed cells at the jail here. Attendants said they seemed to rest "as well as could be expected," considering the great strain upon them.

MEXICO TRIED TO TAMPER WITH SENATE

By JOHN PAGE

(Copyright, 1927, by Washington Herald.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—A Mexican government attempt to tamper with a United States senator is shown by The Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst papers in the publication today of secret official correspondence between the President of Mexico, its foreign minister and its financial agent in New York.

Arturo M. Elias, the Mexican financial agent in New York, in a letter written July 1, 1926, to President Calles, his half-brother, referred to the senator by name and urged Calles to "issue the necessary orders for the transfer of funds to this agency in the ordinary manner and as quickly as possible."

Named "Go-Between"

The "funds" requested by Senor Elias have been referred to repeatedly in Mexican correspondence previously published by The Sun-Telegraph. The sum wanted was $1,200,000.

Senor Financial Agent Elias in this letter also named the man who, according to Elias, was acting as "intermediary agent" in "this matter." The alleged go-between named by Elias is a prominent American lawyer.

Elias wrote that he had informed this alleged go-between that he might inform his purported principal, the senator, that the "business" had been approved and that it only remained for the funds to be transferred from Mexico City to a New York bank "in order to dispose of them in a form which will raise no suspicion."

Elias, in closing, referred to a "memorandum of Senator ," which he said was in the possession of Calles, and inquired whether the Mexican executive wished to make any observations on the memorandum. Elias expressed the desire to be informed of such observations, if any, before delivering the funds to the alleged intermediary agent.

"Otherwise," Elias stated, "I shall place them (the funds) at his disposition without adding a single word."

A copy of this remarkable letter is held by the Hearst papers. The letter, together with other documents published in these articles, will be submitted to congress for an investigation and such action as that body may see fit to take. For that reason the names of the high personages mentioned in this and other official Mexican documents are deleted.

Near Zero Due Here Tonight

From an almost balmy 62 yesterday to a shivery 16 this afternoon, the thermometer tummbled into winter today. Tonight it may reach zero. High wind, snow flurries and continued lowering temperature is the weather prospect.

The windstorm hit Pittsburgh shortly before 1 a. m., changing a warm, rainy night into one tormented by the fury of the elements. At 2 a. m. the gale reached a velocity of 45 miles an hour. Trees were uprooted, fences knocked awry and telegraph and telephone wires broken down. A sign in front of the Canter restaurant, 674 Penn avenue, was blown against an adjoining building and broke a plate glass window. Another sign in front of the May-Stern store, 912 Penn avenue, was blown to the street and wrecked.

On account of the damaged telegraph lines, full reports were delayed at the weather bureau, but scattering information indicated, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman, that the blizzard is general throughout the Middle West. Chicago reported two degrees below zero at 8 a. m. At the same hour Des Moines had a temperature of eight below; St. Paul, 14 below; Duluth, 18 below, and Devil's Lake, 24 below. The southern cities all showed exceptionally low temperatures.

At midnight the mercury in Pittsburgh was 60. It continued to fall and reached 16 at 2 p. m. It was expected to remain about stationary until after sunset, when another decided drop is expected.

RESCUE 200 MINERS IN FAN HOUSE BOMBING

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Two hundred miners had a narrow escape from death when a heavy charge of nitroglycerin wrecked the fan house of the Wilson mine at Cokeburg Junction, 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Operated, without trouble, on an open shop basis since the strike went into effect last spring, no guards were on duty.

The fan house is located a hundred feet from the mouth of the shaft. When the charge was exploded the fan house was almost completely wrecked and the entire ventilation system of the mine put out of commission. The fan was ripped to pieces. Two hundred men in the mine were quickly ordered out and made their exit safely.

Chief County Detective W. B. Dinsmore was summoned to the scene of the explosion and with local Tigers are making an investigation. The mine, owned by Kuhn Brothers, Pittsburgh, nominally employs about 300 men on a shift.

CONVICT HARD TO PLEASE; JUDGE TRIES TO OBLIGE

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—When James Williams, convicted under the narcotics law, told Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe that he preferred his cell with a bath, the Judge pondered, then said: "Try Leavenworth with southern exposure, for a year and a day."

Demand New Vare Hearing

By W. K. HUTCHINSON.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The fight to gain a temporary senatorial seat for William S. Vare (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, resolved itself today into a plea to the Senate for a new trial of the Pennsylvanian on the slush fund charges raised against his primary campaign.

The Vare forces pleaded with the Senate to seat Vare for the time being so he might lead his own defense. They also demanded a new hearing for him before the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, while opposing further inquiry by the Reed Slush Fund Committee.

Senator McLean (Rep.) of Connecticut, opened the second day's debate with his plea.

"In olden times a man was presumed guilty until he proved his innocence," said McLean. "We have a living example of that in the Senate today. It is in direct conflict with all civilized custom.

"For four centuries now the humblest citizen charged with crime in Anglo-Saxon countries is entitled to a trial before a disinterested jury. We all know that privilege is being denied Mr. Vare."

McLean declared it was the Senate's duty to Vare to accept his credentials, seat him and then give him a "fair trial," at which he could defend himself against the slush fund charges.

Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, declared it was "unfair" to the people of Pennsylvania and to Senator Vare. The senator-elect, he said, should be admitted first and then action taken on the charges against him.

BULLET IN TOT'S BODY

Mystery was written in large, black letters over the death today of a 6-year-old girl in McKeesport Hospital with a bullet in her spine.

Her parents told hospital authorities that Helen Dyza of Roberts Hollow, Forward township, near Elizabeth, was injured in a fall. Today, a few hours after she died, a postmortem showed that a bullet had entered her neck, cut through the chest and lodged in the spine.

Helen was admitted to the hospital Tuesday night and treated for internal injuries. An X-ray yesterday

SHE'LL KNOW TODAY

BOY KILLER OF HIS MOTHER FACES 1ST DEGREE MURDER

25TH GIRL KNIFED BY STABBER

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—This city's "phantom stabber victim last night when he lunged at Mrs. Estella Haupler in the darkness on Pequonnock street, and escaped. The young woman was stabbed in the breast, as were the other victims.

Mrs. Haupler was stabbed while on her way to her home.

The "phantom stabber" has appeared every three months to terrorize the women of the city. Starting on February 20, 1923, he has appeared in virtually every section of the city, but has made it a point to attack girls of tender ages, ranging from 12 to 19. Mrs. Haupler is 18.

"CALLS" YALE "RAZZERS"

ROBERT J. ARNOLD

Miss Arnold, star of "Sisters," playing at the Shubert theater, New York, stepped out of character last night long enough to tell a group of Yale fraternity men that their conduct was not "that of gentlemen." The frat boys had been "razzing" the actors from the moment the curtain went up until Miss Arnold's protest late in the play. After one of the students was arrested, they became quiet.

MEANT TO SLAY DAD, HE SAYS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—First degree murder charges will be placed against Andy Dyken, 15, held here for the slaying of his mother and the shooting of his father and a farm hand, Prosecutor Paul V. Waddell announced yesterday.

Dyken, found yesterday hiding in a straw stack on the Dyken farm only 200 yards from the place of the shooting Tuesday, told authorities he "didn't mean to kill mother."

"I thought she was the old man," he declared.

The boy is alleged to have shot and killed his mother, Mary Dyken, 32, and then to have turned his shotgun on his father, Nick Dyken, 35, and John Mordis, 30, a farm hand. The father, shot in the back, may recover. Mordis was wounded in the hips and legs.

AFTER FATHER

Dyken, who appeared badly frightened when captured, was defiant later when questioned at the jail. He declared he wanted to kill his father for the way he had been treated.

"I would shoot him now if I got a chance," he asserted.

"The old man picked me up by the heels when I was a boy and swung me around an apple tree. It's been a dog's life ever since."

Armed with a shotgun and a handful of shells when apprehended, he offered no resistance. The shooting is said to have followed reprimands because he would not go to school.

He told authorities his "mind wasn't good" and he "couldn't learn at school." His father, lying in the hospital, also said the boy was "not quite right."

SHE GUARDS FISH

MRS. WALTER SELLMAN, WARDEN

If you try poaching or fishing out of hours on San Francisco bay, watch out, or Mrs. Walter Sellman of Fairfax, Cal., will get you. She's the only woman fish and game warden in California and knows just how to use that shooting iron shown hanging to belt.

COUNTY AID FOR CLUB PROBED

How much of the improvements in roadways, sewers, parking places and signal lights on the grounds of the Westmoreland Country Club, Verona road, was alleged to have been done by workmen for Allegheny county using county trucks was the question before Controller C. C. McGovern when he resumed his county finance probe sessions today. The inquiry lasted less than two hours, and the witnesses gave little testimony to support the allegations. At noon the session was adjourned until next Monday morning, when officers of the club will be called to testify.

Howard McCurdy, a Rosedale nurseryman, testified that he had worked on a sewer on the club grounds and saw county trucks hauling men back and forth on a private road. Robert Smith, the club greenskeeper, was quite positive that he had superintended all improvement work on the property, but was not certain that no county trucks and no county steamrollers had been employed. J. McClurg Donley, engineer for the Controller's office, estimated that the cost of sewers, roadways and sewer pipe at $7,482.

Samuel A. Steinfurst, secretary of the club, declared that he knew nothing about the improvements. He said Chester H. Lehman was president of the club. Replying to McGovern's question, the witness was uncertain "whether he was the same Lehman whose name appeared on the 'Taxpayers' Committee' during the recent campaign."

Gangsters, Facing Prison, Give to Neediest

Desiring to help the needy, even though they are in the toils of the law and facing long prison terms, two members of the "night rider gang" yesterday dropped 25 cents each in a poor box in the Central Police Station.

One of the bandits noticed the box on the desk of a sergeant, and inquired if he could contribute. When told it was for the "neediest families" he immediately dug a quarter from his pocket and a companion did likewise.

VOTE RECOUNT CONTESTED

The change by the special recount committee of the election returns in East Deer township was contested in a petition filed yesterday in Quarter Sessions Court by electors of the township, and a hearing was fixed for December 15 by Judge James R. Macfarlane. The petition recited that of 422 votes, the returns showed 110 straight Citizens ballots, 12 straight Republican and 4 straight Democratic, electing Frank Hoisher and James Flenner as commissioners at large and John Hill as commissioner of the first district, while the recount showed only 60 straight Citizens ballots, electing Joseph Brim, Anthony Vala and Anthony Altman respectively to the places. The petition alleges that the ballots were tampered with while in the custody of Justice of the Peace John J. Gill, between the election and recount.

BULLET IN TOT'S BODY

showed that she had been shot, but her condition had been so aggravated that little hope was held for her recovery.

The theory of foul play was strengthened when the bullet, removed from the child's body, proved to be from a 38-caliber revolver. Detectives pointed out that it was not likely a hunter would be using such a weapon.

At the hospital today Sam Dyza, 40, father of the child, told attaches his daughter had fallen down the rear porch steps of their home on the Colwell farm. Neither he nor his wife saw her fall, Dyza said.

County detectives were notified of the circumstances when a report of the death was filed at the morgue.

FOUND NEAR HOME

Helen was found at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the foot of a flight of steps in a washhouse about 25 feet from the Dyza kitchen. Five minutes before she had gone to the building to play on the second floor. Her sister, Annie, 14, found Helen injured. The latter said she had fallen down the steps and had struck her neck on a nail.

Mrs. Dyza, with four children, was in the kitchen, and two others, Sophia, 7, and Stanley, 9, were playing in the barn.

Dr. G. L. Howder, Elizabeth, who first treated the girl, said he had noticed small marks around the wound, but his examination was superficial, and he accepted the statement that the girl had struck her neck on a nail.

The family says there was no revolver in the house, although there was a shotgun.

From the course of the bullet it is evident that the child's slayer stood above her and shot downward.

Mrs. Catherine Van Woert. Brought here, Mrs. West was given no intimation that she was suspected of having knowledge of how her husband had met his death. She was questioned by Sheriff Ed Rasmussen and Prosecutor Seth Paulin.

After two hours of questioning, Rasmussen suddenly asked:

"Why did you leave the back door open?"

Mrs. West seemed suddenly to wilt. Then, straightening, she replied:

"All right, I'll tell the truth. I killed him after a quarrel."

The bridge party, to which she had been invited by Miss Mabel Young, of Cleveland, was the cause of the quarrel, the confession said. Her husband did not want her to go.

In their little bungalow at Perry the argument became heated. Mrs. West got a claw hammer from the kitchen, followed her husband into the bedroom and struck him a blow on the head, the confession said. Then she grabbed a leg which had been broken off a small table and beat him.

She tied the lifeless feet with twine, the confession detailed, and stuffed a gag in the mouth. Taking off her blood-stained garments, she dressed for the bridge party. It was then 6 o'clock. She went down to the parlor, picked her music off the piano—for she knew bridge would become monotonous and that she would be asked to sing—left the house with the lights all burning and drove in her own car to Cleveland.

When she reached Miss Young's home, she said, she went upstairs and washed the blood from hands and arms. The guests at the party knew little about bridge and she, too, was a beginner. In time the game grew monotonous, as she expected it would. They asked her to play. So she played while the others danced.

She remained overnight with Miss Young and in the morning went to her mother's home in East Cleveland, for they had planned to shop together. They had just returned from the shopping tour when detectives came to the house. Mrs. West collapsed when she heard the news that her husband had been killed.

Young West was the son of T. B. West, of Perry, well-known nurseryman. He was employed by his father at the nurseries.

OPERATION IS FATAL

cal treatments, but did not enter it for the operation until Sunday.

His two brothers reside in Pittsburgh, E. V. and O. H. Babcock; Raymond L. Babcock, a son, and Miss Marjorie A. Babcock, a daughter, were at the bedside when the end came. E. V. Babcock, who had been accompanying the herd of bison that are being taken to the new county parks, was hurriedly summoned to Pittsburgh by news of his brother's critical condition. He was called to the hospital twice today, and reached it the second time just a few minutes before his brother passed away.

Frederick R. Babcock was a prominent figure in business circles and was active in many other fields of endeavor. He was born on a farm near Fulton, N. Y., on March 16, 1865. He did not go to college, but entered business life at an early age. He became interested in higher education, and in recent years was president of the board of directors of Grove City College.

He was president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association of Pittsburgh at the time of its merger with the Chamber of Commerce, and subsequently was president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Another of his civic activities dealt with the care of the sick. He was chairman of the board of Passavant Hospital.

His town house was at 5620 Fifth avenue. He moved into it only recently. His home formerly was on Woodland road, but he sold it after the death of his wife three years ago. Mr. Babcock's country home was the Chestnut Hill Farm, a show place on the Three Degree road, near Gibsonia. Here he raised pure-bred cattle. He was treasurer and executive committeeman of the Allegheny County Holstein-Friesian Association.

In addition to the members of his family who were at his bedside, Mr. Babcock is survived by a third brother, C. L. Babcock, of Punta Gorda, Fla., and by another son, Edward B., of Wichita, Kan.

He was a member of the Shady Side Presbyterian Church, of the Masonic fraternity, of the Duquesne Club, and numerous other organizations.

His business connections besides those named were as follow:

Treasurer and director of the Babcock Coal and Coke Company, secretary-treasurer and director of the Babcock Lumber and Boom Company, secretary-treasurer and director of the Babcock Lumber and Land Company, director of the Colonial Trust Company, treasurer and director of the Davis Supply Company, director National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, vice president and director of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, director of the Pittsburgh Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association and secretary-treasurer and director of the Tellico River Lumber Company.

Operation Fatal

F. R. BABCOCK

A heart attack, following an operation in West Penn Hospital Monday, for a kidney infection, today proved fatal to Mr. Babcock, a brother of County Commissioner E. V. Babcock, and interested with the latter in the lumber business and other large enterprises. The deceased lived at 6520 Fifth avenue and had a magnificent country home near Gibsonia, which was one of the show places of the country.

FEVER SPREAD SHUTS SCHOOL

WARREN, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Owing to an outbreak of scarlet fever, the North Warren School was closed yesterday and will probably not be reopened until after the Christmas vacation. Seven cases were reported, six of them among students of the school, which has a total enrollment of nearly 200.

GEORGE J. ELWOOD, P. R. R. EMPLOYE, DIES

George Jones Elwood, 61, for more than 40 years an employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died of a stroke Tuesday night in his home, 1137 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg. Mr. Elwood was a conductor for more than 20 years and well known to hundreds of the railroad's patrons. He was a member of Samuel Hamilton Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons; No. 11 Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, and the First United Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. He leaves his wife, Anna Glenn Elwood; three daughters, Sarah Marie Elwood, Mrs. Alice Elwood Welsch, Turtle Creek, and Mrs. Herbert Hagerty, Newark, N. J.; one son, George Glenn Elwood, Pittsburgh; one sister, Miss Mary Elwood, Indiana, Pa., and two brothers, Frank and William Elwood of Pittsburgh.

CITY POLICEMAN CONVICTED AS BIGAMIST

"Guilty" was the verdict returned by the jury, out only 15 minutes, after hearing the evidence in the trial of Robert R. Zeek, former city patrolman, charged with bigamy by his wife, Mrs. Florence Staas Zeek, mother of his seven children. Mrs. Zeek told of her marriage in Covington, Ky., September 18, 1914. She was deserted by Zeek last July and the latter married Hazel Swinehart in Pittsburgh, September 29.

According to the testimony of Mrs. Zeek, her husband had given her a ring and a justice of the peace had given him a document that she supposed was a certificate of marriage. Until last July they had lived in the Hazelwood district, Pittsburgh. Doctors and neighbors of the couple testified today that they had known them as man and wife.

WOMAN BAGS 10-POINT BUCK IN WESTMORELAND

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Fred Wessling of Freeburg, Mo., was the first woman to shoot a deer in Westmoreland county. She bagged a 10-point buck weighing 175 pounds on her first day out. Two hundred deer have been killed this season, and last year's high mark of 205, it is believed, will be passed.

MOTHER DECLARED WIFE

MRS. FLORENCE ZEEK

A jury in Criminal Court decided today that Mrs. Zeek was the lawful wife of Robert R. Zeek, former city patrolman, who deserted her last July, after seven children were born to the couple. Zeek, after deserting his wife, married again. Denying in court that he had ever m[illegible] the mother of his children, Zeek was found guilty on a ch[illegible] gamy.

CO-ED DISAPPEARS

PAULINE ROSECRANCE

A nation-wide search has been started for Pauline Rosecrance, 18, of Carson City, Mich., a student in Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti. She walked out of her rooming house there November 29 and has not been heard of since. Friends said she had been despondent some time.

MELLON REVEALS HIS CHOICE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Secretary Mellon took the unusual course today of allowing himself to be directly quoted in a discussion of presidential candidates.

Asked what kind of a President he thought the country needed, he replied:

"A good one."

Questioned concerning what part of the country such a man should come from, he said:

"Wherever he lives."

Mr. Mellon has favored Charles E. Hughes, and he would not say whether he thought Mr. Hughes had eliminated himself from consideration by his statements that he was not a candidate. He said he had believed all along that Mr. Coolidge would not be a candidate.

Thaw Tries Luck Again

Divorced Wife Of Oil Baron Held as Thief

THE DAILY PICTORIAL | THE SUN TELEGRAPH | GENERAL NEWS SECTION

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1927

NOW IN WEST

Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgher, has deserted the wintery blasts of the East for California where he will attempt to make film stars of two young proteges.

GORGEOUS GEORGIAN

One, Anita Rivers, is a tall, stately blonde, of a type that should easily find favor in the movies with proper handling. She hails from Georgia and has been working for Thaw in small comedy films which he has been producing independently on New York lots. She is in the western film capital with her sponsor.

SOUTHERN BELLE

From the state of corn liquor, good horses and beautiful women, Kentucky, came Susan Hughes to attract Thaw's attention. She has shared honors with Miss Rivers in his eastern screen productions and is expected by Thaw to develop into a real box office attraction. She is dark-haired and dark-eyed, the exact antithesis of her blond partner.

RAILROADS BURIED IN SNOW

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—The Northwest was staggering in the grip of a blizzard this morning that has brought demoralization from the Mississippi river to the Canadian border. Railroad traffic and wire service was badly crippled.

In Chicago, holiday shopping crowds last night struggled through falling rain, fog and a pall of smoke that overhung the city. In the downtown district daylight disappeared and lights glowed through the gloom.

Snowdrifts buried railroads in Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota.

A crack passenger train on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad plunged into a 20-foot snowbank 20 miles south of St. Paul at 6 a. m. yesterday, and stuck there until 10 o'clock, when it was released and succeeded in reaching its destination.

Rotary snowplows were biting into giant drifts all over the Northwest, striving to keep lines of communication open. In some districts branch railroad lines were abandoned, working forces concentrating on main lines.

Schools were closed in St. Paul when the storm struck that city, and hundreds of schools through Nebraska, Colorado, the Dakotas and Minnesota were closed at the approach of the storm.

Temperature in the Far Northwest was from 20 to 30 below zero. Havre, Mont., reported 32 below.

MRS. MATTIE M'CAULIFFE

Accused by police of looting fashionable Hollywood apartments of jewelry and other valuables, with an estimated worth of $300,000 Mrs. Mattie McCauliffe is being held in the Los Angeles jail, pending investigation. She is the former wife of August P. Minchew, wealthy Denver and Dallas oil man. Her present husband, known as McLaurine G. McCauliffe, although Mrs. McCauliffe declares that is not his right name, is in the Hollywood jail, charged with complicity in the robberies.

Is Congress Open And Why, Will Wants to Know

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 8.—On board presidential train coming into Mexico City, just getting in off a great trip. Ambassador and the President had a great time, and it gave them a great chance to get better acquainted, without the usual formality.

Did Congress open Monday, and why? Did Calvin tell 'em anything, and what, and for why?

MIDWAY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS START PAPER

MIDWAY, Pa., Dec. 8.—A joint school and community newspaper, to be issued bi-weekly, has been started by students of the Midway High School. Business men of the town and school authorities are co-operating in support of the publication. The editor-in-chief is Raymer Nice, a high school senior.

COULDN'T WRITE, PROVES INNOCENCE OF FORGERY

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—Accused of signing and passing worthless checks, William McMannis proved that he was innocent by confession he couldn't write. McMannis said Andy Lint, 25, was the guilty person and Alderman Muni held Lint for court.

STRIKING MINERS FACE WINTER COLD HOMELESS

BARRACKS RISING SLOWLY

Little progress has been made in the erection of barracks for the union miners, who will be compelled to vacate company houses in the near futur. The strikers started work on the barracks a week or so ago, but said they were ordered to stop work pending word from union officials. The photograph shows a group of strikers at Mine No. 3 and posts set in the ground which will support the proposed buildings.

Ruth, Judd, "Broke," Despair

By EVELYN LEE BOONE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Complete lack of funds threatens to halt the legal fight of Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, to escape the electric chair.

Attorneys for each devoted yesterday to mapping out plans to carry their battle to the United States Supreme Court. But all wonder where the money is coming from. Such an appeal involves considerable expense.

Mrs. Snyder spent $13,500 in her recent attempt to escape conviction for the murder of her husband. Now she is "broke," and the maintenance of her daughter, Lorraine, 9, is dependent upon relatives. Likewise, the money provided by Gray's family has been exhausted, and all expenses must be met by his attorneys.

Mrs. Snyder, brooding in her death cell, it was said by her attorney, Joseph Lonardo, considers herself the most misunderstood person in the world. Her conviction has so branded her, she says, that no one is willing to believe any good of her.

Lonardo said:

"That woman is the most wretched person living. She knows the public is crying for her blood, and that she stands alone against the world. Her condition would wring the hearts of even those who condemn her most."

MINIATURE CYCLONE HITS KANE, UNROOFS HOUSES

KANE, Pa., Dec. 8.—Kane was struck by a miniature cyclone early this morning that uprooted trees, broke windows and tore away roofs in various parts of the city. Several telephone poles were blown down and transmission lines were damaged. No one was hurt.

NO ROUGE FOR BEAVER HIGH MISSES

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THIS PICTURE?

Nothing except that these four members of Beaver High School's senior class are rougeless and powderless. Beaver lost the Thanksgiving football game to Rochester and ever since—well, almost ever since, except, perhaps, when the heavy "date" was on—Jane Swank, Althea Norton, Margaret McClintock and Evelyn Eckles quit cosmetics.

"I Do Not Choose," Means Nothing To Mayor Bill

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Whether Mr. Coolidge chooses or not, he will receive at least one vote for renomination at Kansas City, provided Mayor "Bill" Thompson of Chicago is chosen a delegate.

"I'll vote for him, anyhow," the mayor said. "I don't want to see the city lose him. I think he has been the greatest friend Chicago has had in the White House in our day."

CONVICT ROSSO IN 2ND DEGREE

Alfred Rosso, 21, of 203 Braddock avenue, Turtle Creek, was found guilty of murder, in the second degree by a jury after deliberating 13 hours.

Rosso shot Frank Mastrandrea, 34, of South Wheeler street, on Sunday evening, August 7, in Frankstown road after a quarrel over a bumping of arms in passing. Rosso pleaded self-defense.

NAB SUSPECTS ON PHONE TIP

An episode in Pittsburgh's gang warfare was believed to have been balked early this morning when Frankstown Avenue police, responding to a mysterious telephone call, arrested two men, armed, they say, with a double-barreled shotgun and two revolvers, in an automobile parked at Homewood avenue and Tioga street.

The men said they were John Alberti, 30, and Frank Reno, 26. The men gave fictitious addresses. After a grilling they are said to have implicated Lewis Zanbrono, 26, of 618 Larimer avenue, who was arrested later. All were being held on suspicious persons charges.

A call was received by Sergt. Edward James at 4:30. The speaker told police that an automobile load of gangsters was lying in wait for a victim at Homewood avenue and Tioga street. Detectives said Reno and Alberti ran from the car when they approached.

A search of the automobile revealed a 16-gauge shotgun.

The men, when brought before Magistrate William Soost in Frankstown Avenue Police Court this morning, stuck to correctness of the names and addresses given police earlier in the day. They are being held.

DON'T NEED LIPSTICKS HERE

There's one place, D. H. Stewart, supervising principal of the school declares, that the girls don't need rouge and lipstick to be successful—and that's in the kitchen. Here's a group of Beaver High seniors learning how to keep hubby from staying down town to dinner in the years that are to come.

NOW ON THE OTHER HAND—

But—notice the looks Elizabeth Eaddell, left, and Elizabeth McKinley give the photographer when he asks how they would like to settle down and cook some sweet male's dinner for life.

Booed, Actress Chides Collegians From Stage

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Miss Roberta Arnold, starring in "Sisters," at the Shubert Theater here, stepped completely out of character last night after she had been booed and cat-called by a number of new Yale fraternity members, and proceeded to tell the students just what she thought of them. Her action brought a sudden end to what appeared to be developing into a young riot.

From the moment the curtain went up in the first act of the play, the Yale men, according to theater attendants, proceeded to "razz" everything and everyone connected with the show. When Miss Arnold made her first appearance she was greeted by a shower of carnations which the fraternity men took from their buttonholes and hurled on the stage.

One student was taken into custody by a squad of police, but was released.

WESTMORELAND IS BEST FARM COUNTY IN DISTRICT

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—Westmoreland county outranks all other counties in the Pittsburgh district in agriculture, a survey shows. It leads Washington, Butler, Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver and Fayette counties in total farm acreage and in grain production, and is well among the leaders in other items of agriculture.

SEIZE SLOT MACHINES IN BRADDOCK, RANKIN

A raid on stores operating punch boards and slot machines was made in Braddock and Rankin by County Detectives John Burke and Michael Stabile last night and five slot machines and numerous boards were confiscated, along with prizes. Informations have been made against the proprietors before Alderman George Anderson.

CHURCHES AID DESTITUTE MINERS

Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company houses at No. 2 mine, some of which are occupied by striking union miners and others by non-union men and their families. Many of the strikers, who have not worked since last April, are unable to provide for their families and churches in the Mt. Lebanon and Dormont districts are following the example set by the Beechview Methodist church in collecting cast-off clothing for the strikers.

UNION CARES FOR THOSE TURNED OUT OF HOMES

One of the large families who find it difficult to get along while the head of the household is out of work. Left to right—Mrs. Frank Mikush holding her 10-months'-old son, Antonio, Frank Mikush, Eddie, 7; William, 8; Frank, 13; Victor, 10; Walter, 5; and Victoria, 9. There are two more children in the family, Raymond, 12; and Albert, 2. This was the first family evicted by the coal company and union officials have provided them living quarters on the first floor of the union hall.

VARE'S HOME ENTERED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 8—(AP.)—The summer home here of United States Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania was entered early Tuesday morning, police revealed today.

After neighbors reported seeing a light in the unoccupied house, detectives sent to investigate found that a second story window had been broken open, but nothing seemed to have been disturbed. An empty wine glass was found on the table. The intruder apparently gained access to the window by climbing a porch.

7 AT PITT TAPPED FOR OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

Six students and one professor at the University of Pittsburgh were tapped last night for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary activities fraternity for outstanding service to the university in campus activities.

Prof. E. Willis Whited, of the faculty of the school of engineering and coach of Pitt players, was tapped for membership together with six students. Harry Decker, president of student council and president of Delta Tau Delta fraternity; Harold A. Johnston, president of the student relations committee and a member of student council; Herman Rechtschaffner, editor of the Pitt Weekly and a member of student council; Victor W. Packard, student council and varsity track; David Stewart, assistant football manager and member of interfraternity council, and William P. Shea, football and president of Phi Kappa fraternity.

She plans a year ahead in her selections, nursing with special care a group of trees which she has selected.

Swift's Premium

Pork Loins, lb., 23c

Serve With Jersey "Sweets" Sunday

"Premiums" are the smallest, tenderest loins that Swift dresses. Only highest grade carries the "Premium" name. There's a vast difference in loins, too. Small 6 to 9-lb. loins differ vastly from the 12 to 14-lb. loins offered by most stores. They cost several cents a pound more and when the roast is served, the difference in flavor and texture is at once evident.

Buy 3 Pounds of "Coffee Supreme," $1.33

Single pounds of this rich, fresh-roasted coffee cost 50c. A 3-lb. package saves the cost of two bags and the labor of packing them. We regularly give you this saving by pricing 3 pounds at $1.39. This week you save even more for we feature the 3-lb. package at $1.33.

Freshly Dressed Stewing Hens—lb. 39c

A fricassee—a bit of stewed chicken or a broth for the ailing member of the family. A "stewer" is the standby of the poultry section. The meat is delicious for salads or sandwiches!

Santa Clara Prunes,
40-50 Size, 4 Pounds, 49c

New crop, medium sized, thick-meated fruit with a flavor that "smacks" of California sunshine. Sweet as sugar. From Santa Clara Valley—the prune district of the world.

Something New!
Butter Coffee Cake, ea. 30c

Made from a butter-shortened dough—washed with butter just before it goes in the oven. Sprinkled with blanched almonds. You'll like it for breakfast.

Deep Sea Oysters, pt. 39c

Far out in the Chesapeake these oysters are gathered. Then packed in airtight containers and shipped to us in ice. The law requires this of every oyster shipment coming into this State. The oysters are not "canned" or preserved—the tin container merely prevents adulteration.

STEUBENVILLE HOLDUP LAID TO 'RIDERS'

The gang of "night riders" accused of committing scores of robberies and holdups here, did not confine their activities to Pittsburgh, but staged at least six robberies and stole two automobiles in Steubenville, O., according to local detectives who returned from that city last night. The machine in which members of the gang were arrested Monday night was stolen in the Ohio city, detectives say.

The members of the gang, Thomas Boyle, 21, of 229 Ella street; Anthony Colleta, 26, and his brother, Albert, 24, both of 2661 Butler street, and Josephine Nare, 18, of 147 Almond way, were identified yesterday by 29 victims at hearings in Morals Court. Joseph Cooper, 21, of 2619 Charlotte street, and Edward Sastek, 24, of 2626 Butler street, are also held in connection with the robberies.

WARREN MAN MISSING FROM FLORIDA BOAT

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A man believed to be Jud Holmes, Warren, Pa., disappeared from the Gulf and Southern steamer Tampa last Sunday night, officials of the line reported yesterday. The steamer left New Orleans Saturday and the absence of the passenger was noted Monday. The Tampa docked here that day, returning to New Orleans on its regular voyage. Officials refused further details.

SENATOR'S WIFE HIS EYES

BLIND SOLON'S MATE ACTS AS SECRETARY

Senator Thomas D. Schall, blind senator from Minnesota, came to the Seventieth Congress, with the secretary who has served him for 20 years—his wife. Schall has served five terms in the House of Representatives. This is his third year in the Senate.

FREIGHT TARIFFS TO SOUTH TO BE CUT JAN. 15

The present freight rates to southern points, which discriminate against Pittsburgh in favor of Rochester, N. Y., Buffalo and other northern cities, will be revised January 15, the Chamber of Commerce announced today, and thereafter the city will get the benefit of its geographical position.

To illustrate: It costs less to ship certain kinds of goods from Rochester to Atlanta than from Pittsburgh to Atlanta, notwithstanding that the Rochester-Atlanta haul is several hundred miles longer than the Pittsburgh-Atlanta haul. Under the revised rates the tariff from Rochester will be higher than that from Pittsburgh. The rates from Buffalo to Birmingham, Ala., are the same at present as those from Pittsburgh to Birmingham, notwithstanding that Buffalo is farther away. The schedule that goes into effect January 15 will give Pittsburgh lower rates than Buffalo on freight shipments to Birmingham.

The illustrations given do not represent all the changes or all the cities that are to be affected by the revision of rates. Almost all tariffs from points east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac to southern points are to be either increased or decreased.

The Chamber of Commerce advises manufacturers or distributors shipping to southern points to inform themselves as early as possible of the changes in the rates from Pittsburgh, as well as from other shipping points, with which they are in competition, to determine if any inequalities will be brought about that will work a hardship on their traffic.

Gifts Men Appreciate

...are gifts to wear

There's nothing more appropriate, more acceptable, more appreciated, than gifts to wear—when they are selected with discretion and care.

Knowing the dressing habits of men of Pittsburgh, we are unusually well prepared to assist you with your gift selections. And our unusually well-stocked, convenient store contains a greater assortment of Gifts Men Appreciate than ever before.

From Wilson Brothers we have the following, awaiting the pleasure of your selection:—

Neckwear

Beautiful creations, in colorful silks, authentically styled, and expertly fashioned. An enormous assortment, all appropriate as gifts, many at $1, and a large variety at $1.50, $2, and $2.50.

Shirts

Lustrous white Strand Broadcloth shirts with collar attached, or neckband, at $2.50 each. Fancy shirts, a splendid array, neckband or collar-attached, new designs and long-wearing fabrics, $2.00 and $2.50.

Hosiery

Fancy woolen hosiery, colorful plaids, checks, figures, stripes, at 50c, 75c and $1.00. More conservative wool hose, in greys, blacks and heather mixtures, at 50c and $1.00. And the celebrated Wilson "75" silk hose, all colors, at 75c a pair.

Mufflers

Squares and reefers, in silks and woolens, gayly hued or in more subdued patterns, an assortment of mufflers that affords a splendid selection, at all prices.

Pajamas

Nothing like nightwear for Christmas gifts! These, from Wilson Brothers, are tailored to give comfortable rest. Many are brilliantly colored, but we have a great variety of more conservative pajamas. Priced within the Christmas budget, from $2 up.

Robes

For bath, lounging and dressing, a generous assortment of silks and flannels from Terry and Beacon, at $5, $7.50, $10, $12.50 and $18.

Accessories

Garters, belts, suspenders, jewelry, in fact, everything for a man is here at this Christmas store. Inexpensive gifts for a friend or a distant relative, or those that cost a bit more for those who are nearer and dearer, it makes no difference for Christmas, 1927, finds this store very well prepared to assist you in deciding.

BE SURE! Of the RADIO You Buy

Whether for Yourself, or a Gift

EVERY new development in radio brings an epidemic of Radio "Sales."

The manufacturers relieve themselves of the models soon to become obsolete, by offering them to the stores at a substantial discount, who in turn make a sensational "Sale," and appear to offer unusual and superior values in seemingly current models.

The great joy of the purchasers at their "savings," turns to corresponding disappointment, however, when the new models appear, and the reason for the bargain is discovered.

This store has steadfastly refused all temptations to profit by discarded models and distressed merchandise.

Any model which the manufacturer, who knows the facts, sees fit to sell at a discount, we see equal good reason to refuse. We prefer to wait for the improved model—that we may always assure our customers the best and latest available type of machine to our best knowledge.

The wisdom of this policy has been demonstrated by the confidence imposed in this store by the radio-buying public and the success of this department.

In purchasing your radio at Horne's you are assured:

1. The best, latest types of tested and proven standard makes only.
2. Regular prices, in a wide range of models to meet practically every desire on this point.
3. Convenient payment terms, as favorable as those offered by any first class store in the city.
4. Complete installation, inspection and a year's free service, assuring absolute protection and satisfaction for the purchaser.

FINE CAR INSPECTOR ON SECOND CHARGE

Joseph Kaufman, 53, a former car inspector for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, now serving a three-month sentence for violating the Mann act, was brought into the Federal District Court on Wednesday, when he confessed unlawfully using in interstate commerce a railroad pass, which had figured in the white slave charge. He was fined $100 and returned to jail. Kaufman had obtained a pass to New York for himself and "daughter," with which he took Katie Reitter, 15, to New York and return.

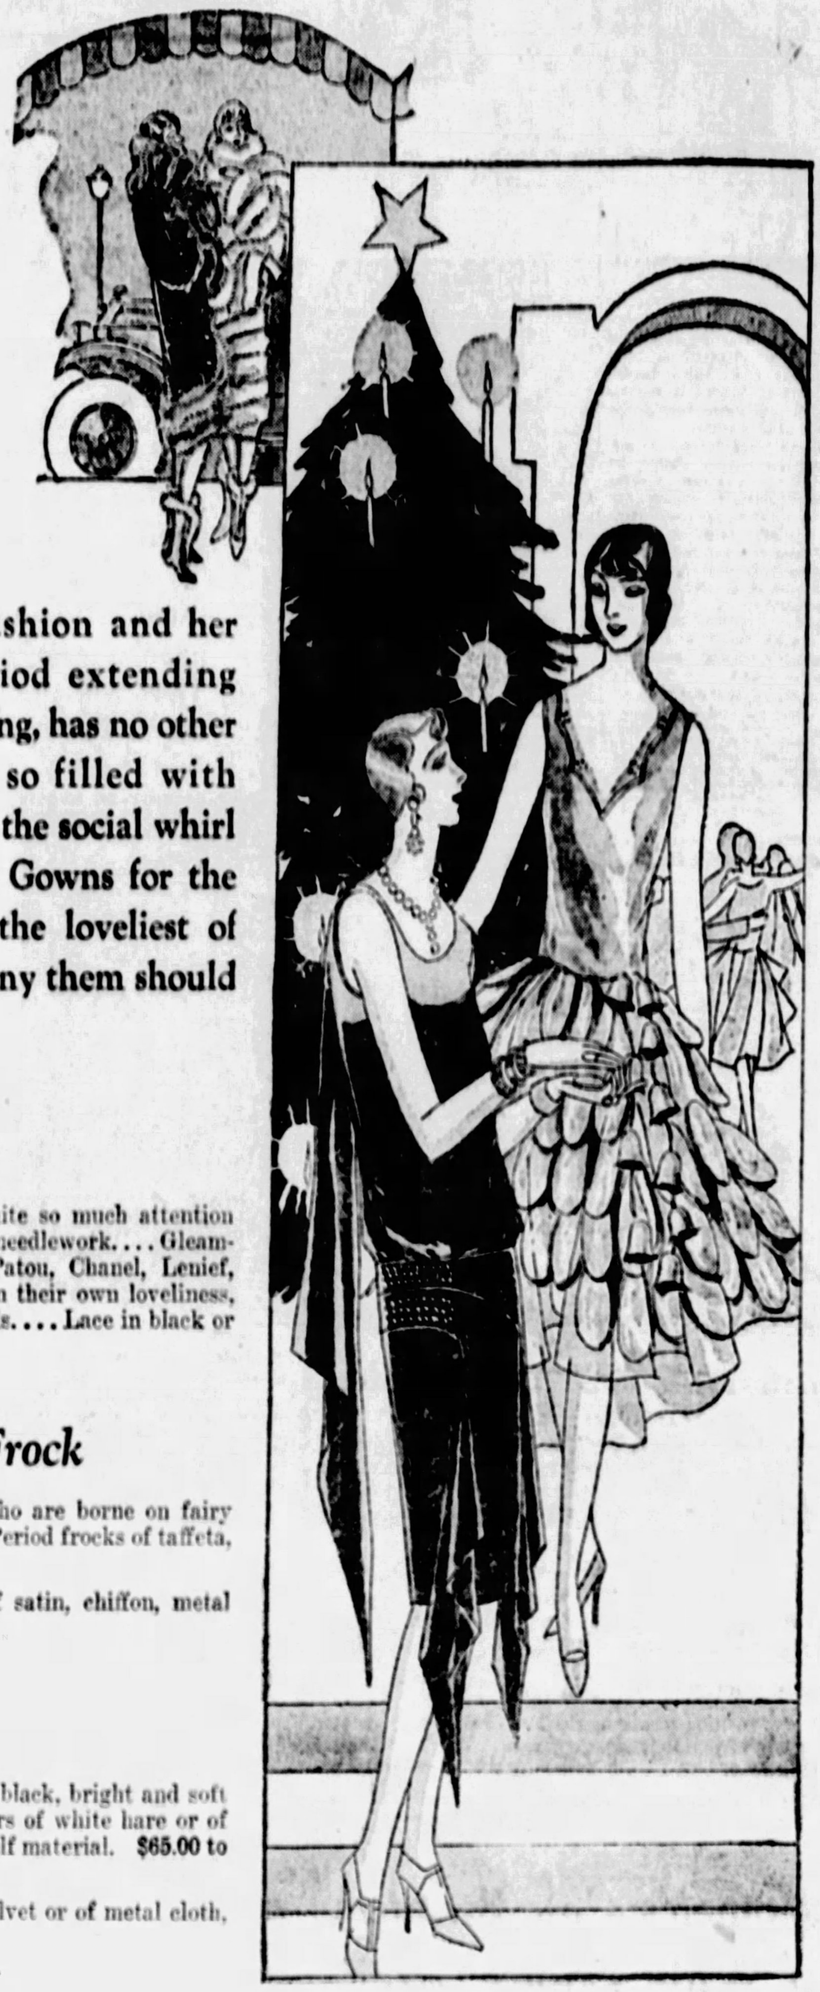
For the Christmas Social Season



THE Fifth Season, which Fashion and her sponsors observe as the period extending from late autumn until early spring, has no other epoch quite so gay, so brilliant, so filled with merrymaking, as that covered by the social whirl of the Christmas holidays..... Gowns for the electric-lighted hours must be the loveliest of their kind, and wraps to accompany them should be not one whit less effective.

Women's Evening Gowns

French beaded gowns never gave quite so much attention to line, to design of pattern, to deftness of needlework.... Gleaming satin dresses include copies after Patou, Chanel, Lenief, Goupy.... Chiffon gowns are effective in their own loveliness, or enhanced by rhinestones or velvet petals.... Lace in black or nude. $39.50 to $95.00.

The Picturesque Period Frock

It is the beloved of young women who are borne on fairy wings of imagination after six o'clock.... Period frocks of taffeta, satin, tulle, or velvet, $39.50 to $150.00.

French beaded frocks, and frocks of satin, chiffon, metal cloth—$39.50 to $98.50.

Evening Wraps

Misses' soft, drapey wraps of velvet in black, bright and soft shades, have Paquin collars or crush collars of white hare or of chinchinola fur, or with shirred collars of self material. $65.00 to $225.00.

Women's wraps of plain or crushed velvet or of metal cloth, $45.00 to $495.00.

Velvet Dresses Repriced

ALL of the very fine women's velvet dresses in our stocks have been regrouped. There are three feature groups at new low prices:

$65 $75 $95

There are both daytime and evening dresses, most of them being of the beautiful transparent weave which has made velvet a fabric wearable in almost any climate.

Besides dresses entirely of velvet, there are models of velvet combined with lame and metal brocade, and those of sheer crepe Elizabeth and roma trimmed with velvet.

All are distinctive dressmaker-made dresses, suited to wear at the most important social functions.

Plain and Changeable Taffeta

A table piled high with lovely shining taffetas in a great many glorious colors....These are kept in continuous disorder by people seeking just exactly the right shade for that gift they contemplate making....Boudoir pillows and dolls, nightie-bags, and many similar gift-thoughts are suggested by this popular fabric. 35-inch.

Aphrodite Crepe de Chine

The right weight for lingerie, especially, and in the exquisite pastels and neutral shades most desirable in dainty slips and under-things. Another feature of this fabric which suits it particularly for this sort of gifts is that it is washable. 39-inch.

Printed Crepe de Chine

New designs and new colorings—designed primarily for the Winter Resort and Southern Season, but rapidly being adopted for immediate wear. A dress length of a smart fabric like this could not but be enthusiastically welcomed by any woman who likes to dress just a bit in advance of the mode....And what woman does not? 39-inch.

Printed Georgette Crepe

Fascinating new designs on a very nice quality of this sheer silk crepe. There are florals of gentle grace and others of vigorous, staccato beauty; there are stripes, (something new in georgettes) and dots of various sizes. All developed in highly pleasing color combinations, and presented in extremely satisfactory variety. 39 inch.

JAMES JOSEPH BRENNAN

A pioneer in the construction of Pittsburgh's first modern water system, Mr. Brennan was chief engineer in the Bureau of Water for nearly a quarter of a century. He died at his home in East Liberty last Monday.

James Joseph Brennan.

James Joseph Brennan, 70, a life long resident of Pittsburgh, died at his home, 1600 Villanova road, East Liberty, Tuesday morning, December 6. He was born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, while his parents were visiting England.

Mr. Brennan was in charge of the erection of Pittsburgh's first modern waterworks, and was first chief engineer of the system for nearly a quarter century. In his younger days, he was a leading figure in the movement for total abstinence and allied church and welfare work in old St. Paul's Cathedral. Mr. Brennan was one of the pioneer members of the Sacred Heart Church and continued active in its work until recently.

He leaves five sons, James, Albert, Leo, George and Victor; one daughter, Miss Collette Brennan, and two grandchildren, Leo and Catherine Brennan.

SAN FRANCISCO LOSES AFTER HARD FIGHT

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The Republican National Convention will be held at Kansas City, Mo., on June 12, 1928, to nominate its presidential ticket in the same convention hall where the Democrats nominated William Jennings Bryan in 1900.

The Missouri city was chosen over San Francisco yesterday on the twentieth ballot of the National Committee after the bitterest convention city fight in the history of the Grand Old Party. The final ballot stood: Kansas City 58, San Francisco 39, Detroit 4 and Chicago 1.

Behind the apparent split over the choice of a convention site, was an open uprising against Chairman William M. Butler, of Massachusetts, who aroused the ire of the supporters of San Francisco, Detroit and other cities, by bringing pressure to bear upon Southern committee members in favor of Kansas City.

The result was a deadlock which continued through ballot after ballot as Butler's opponents tried vainly to gather enough votes to swing the convention to some other city. At times the resentment against the chairman was so apparent and the balloting so stubborn that the committee seemed about to copy a leaf from the Democrats and stage a "miniature Madison Square Garden" fiasco.

San Francisco got away to a flying start and led continually during the early balloting, reaching its peak of 48 votes on the fourth ballot. Kansas City gained steadily and finally took the lead on the ninth ballot with 43 votes against 42 for San Francisco. When the committee adjourned for lunch after the tenth ballot, an attempt was made by some of the leaders to break the deadlock by compromising on Detroit, which had been running third. Chairman Butler, however, refused to give ground and the Motor City never got beyond its early peak of 16 votes. Chicago, Cleveland and Philadelphia, the other contestants, never had over three votes on any one ballot.

Kansas City staked its claim to the convention as a matter of "plain, practical politics," on the ground that it is the center of a doubtful territory which may be swung into the Republican column if the National Convention is held there. It is also close to the heart of the present agricultural unrest and is well situated geographically as a convention site.

AUTOISTS IN EAST GIVE MORE LIFTS, HIKERS FIND

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—Western motorists aren't so obliging to hikers as their eastern brethren because they fear disguised bandits, Charles Doerflein, 20, and Harry Litman have learned in their cross-country rambles. The boys, returning to Philadelphia from Los Angeles, are said to have covered 15,000 miles in 53 days.

A. H. WALTERS, JOHNSTOWN, DIES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—Anderson H. Walters, former Congressman and publisher and editor of the Johnstown Tribune, died last night in Memorial Hospital. He was aged 66 and had been in failing health for two years. Anaemia was the cause of death.

Mr. Walters was born in Johnstown and in early life was employed as a telegrapher by the Pennsylvania Railroad and for many years was associated with the Johnstown Water Company. He became owner of the Johnstown Tribune in 1902.

Mr. Walters served as Congressman-at-large during the Sixty-third, Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh Congresses and represented the Twentieth District in the Sixty-ninth Congress.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Jessie O. Walters; a brother, Gomer Walters, of Johnstown, and four sisters. Funeral services will be held Saturday.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Lindbergh.

HUNDREDS SEEK LOST HUNTER

LEWISTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Scores of hunting camps and hundreds of hunters today combed seven mountains in a search for Clyde Hess, 45, of Parkersburg, Chester county, missing from the Salisbury Hunting Lodge since noon Tuesday.

Belief that he may have become lost in the wild mountainous country after telling William Munsell, game protector, whom he met, that he was going to the Broad Mountain section to hunt was expressed by the searchers. It is also feared that he may have met death through the accidental discharge of his gun.

OPEN SUNDAY THEATER MAN GRANTED DIVORCE

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—George Moleaviaten, better known as George Chrest, bound over to the grand jury by Mayor P. J. Groh, Dover, for operating his two picture shows Sunday, November 13, was granted a divorce today from Georgia Moleaviaten, Wooster. Chrest has to pay $1,200 alimony.

DELTA SIGMA PHI TO HOLD FOUNDERS' DAY

Omega Chapter of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity of the University of Pittsburgh will hold its founders' day events on Friday evening. The program will include a dinner at the chapter house for the alumni followed by a smoker.

STORK HOLDS UP TRIAL HERE

The stork today was successful in clogging the wheels of justice in Federal Court. The new trial of Daniel Shields, alleged Johnstown bootlegger, was postponed at the government's request when it was learned that a government witness, a former employe of the prohibition enforcement bureau at Washington, was expecting momentarily a visit from the "bird of the heir."

Shields had been granted a new trial by the United States Supreme Court after he had been sentenced to one year in jail for violation of the prohibition laws.

FIRE BUREAU "BUNKING" COUNCIL, ENGLISH SAYS

BUDGET SESSION SLASHES FUND REQUESTS

The Bureau of Fire "is handing us the bunk," charged Councilman W. Y. English, attacking appropriations asked by that branch at the budget session last night. He declared that the bureau is "notorious" for excessive requests.

As a result of the drive made by English and others, a request for $50,000 for repairs was held up pending a detailed report, a $5,000 equipment item cut to $2,000, and $15,000 asked for new fire hose slashed to $10,000 pending a further inquiry.

...nor cuts were made in the ...dget last night, one of the ...ng a $5,000 slash in the request of the Bureau of Police for $40,650 for automobiles and motorcycles, pending the receipt of a report from that department. Other reductions included a cut of $10,000 in the Law Department's request of $25,000 for witness fees, and a slash of $4,000 in the dog pound's request for $14,000.

A report was asked upon the activities of the city coal mine at Mayview, for which $53,000 is asked for 1928.

TOM MAY'S FAMOUS "FORGOTTEN"

TEMPLARS TO HOLD ANNUAL RECEPTION

Members of Duquesne Commandery, No. 72, Knights Templar, will hold their annual fall reception, dance and card party tonight at the Rittenhouse Hotel, North Highland avenue. Past Eminent Commander William McC. Lytle is chairman of the executive committee.

2 MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS INJURED IN ACCIDENTS

Two motorcycle patrolmen, Henry Kahout and C. J. Scherlein of the South Side Police Station, were injured early today and are confined to their homes.

Scherlein was thrown against a girder on the Smithfield street bridge when his machine skidded on the wet asphalt. He suffered body bruises and lacerations. Kahout suffered injuries to the right knee as a result of being knocked from the machine by the pedal kicking back.

Cartoon Helps Show Neediests' Plight

To help people to appreciate what it means to be desperately poor at Christmas, to touch their hearts and induce them to contribute to the fund that The Sun-Telegraph is raising for the Twenty Neediest Cases in Pittsburgh, there is being reproduced a celebrated cartoon entitled "Forgotten," depicting the distress of a child that has been overlooked by Santa Claus.

The picture is the work of Tom May, noted Detroit cartoonist, who died a few days ago. Mr. May was a sincere man who put his heart into his work. A kindly, genial soul, he not only appealed for the unfortunates with his art, but gave sympathy and assistance in more direct ways. The world is the better for his having lived.

There are children in the Twenty Neediest Cases, who, like that whom Mr. May pictures, will be "forgotten" at Christmas, unless the good people of this district come to the rescue. These tots not only will receive no playthings from Santa Claus—they will not even have a square meal, decent clothing or a warm home. For the Twenty Neediest are cases of the wretchedest destitution. They are families in which the breadwinners are dead or disabled, or in prisons or insane asylums. With a few exceptions there are numerous small children in each of the families. This appeal is for the necessities of life for them—food and fuel, clothing, medicine and the attention of physicians.

Another touching example of the sympathy that those who are not in the best of circumstances themselves have for the poor was found in a note that accompanied a contribution to the Twenty Neediest Cases Fund. "It isn't much," the writer says, "I wish it was more. But my mother has to work to keep herself and me. It is given with good will." Many of those who have not contributed to the fund because they felt they were not well enough off themselves would do well to consider this letter.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is Case No. 11:

How can a woman with eight children, all under 16 years, shelter, feed and clothe them when her husband has tuberculosis and is spending the last few months of his life in the hospital?

This mother thought she was solving her problem in part when she obtained employment. To her, food was a more pressing need than education and she kept her older children away from school day after day to take care of the babies while she went to work. It was hard to make her understand that she could not do this and work out a plan for the family. A working certificate was obtained for the oldest boy, and he is now earning $1 a day. This, the entire income of the family, is barely sufficient to pay the rent. Food, fuel and clothing must be provided.

Reported by the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor.)

Case No. 12 will be described tomorrow.

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations.

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue.

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

COOLIDGE CHAPLAIN TO SPEAK AT RALLY HERE

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Over Body, Face and Hands. Cuticura Heals.

"I had a terrible itching all over my body, face and hands. In a few days pimples developed. They were hard and very red, but not very large. The pimples became very troublesome and itched and burned, causing me to scratch. My face was disfigured for a few weeks.

"I tried different remedies but they did not relieve the irritation. I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some, and after using two and a half cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." # TWO OBJECTIONS SEEN TO VOTE MACHINES

Supplementing his statement of yesterday concerning the advantages of voting machines, Prof. Ralph S. Boots, of the department of political science, University of Pittsburgh, today discussed their disadvantages. He held that the principal objections are only of academic interest under the conditions now obtaining or likely to obtain soon. The citizens of Pennsylvania will vote at the next general election on a constitutional amendment authorizing the machines.

Prof. Boots said:

"Among all the objections advanced against the purchase and use of voting machines in Pennsylvania there seem to be only two that are worthy of serious consideration. Of course, if it were a question of mandatory adoption and state-wide use, on popular approval of the amendment, the matter of cost would deserve careful thought; that is, the improvement to be expected from their use and the probable saving might prove in certain districts hardly commensurate with the capital outlay. This would be true of districts containing few voters and districts where no problems of fraud are raised.

"The two important objections are these: First, the vote under the proportional representation system cannot be counted on a voting machine, and, second, the adoption of the 'short ballot' would lessen the utility of voting machines.

"Cleveland and Cincinnati recently adopted city manager charters with the proportional representation plan of electing the council members. Many persons would like to see Pittsburgh and other Pennsylvania cities take the same step. If and when they do so, the voting machines could not be used for counting the vote of councilmen. Of course, a separate paper ballot for these offices might be provided at little additional expense.

"By the 'short ballot' principle is meant the reduction in the number of elective officials to a very few—only those whose functions are policy-determining in character. It is the plan we employ in the national government. The voter votes for only three national officers—president, senator, representative. By this means he controls his national government quite as effectively as he controls state, county and city government by electing, or trying to elect, many more officers.

"If the 'short ballot' were adopted, and we should have not over three or four officers to elect at a time, the need for the voting machine would be materially reduced. If the voters of Pennsylvania today had an opportunity to choose between voting machines for electing our present horde of officials, on the one hand, and the city manager plan and 'short ballot' system without voting machines, on the other, they would probably do well to make the latter choice.

"But, unfortunately, these desirable changes—Roosevelt, Wilson, Taft and Hughes approved the 'short ballot'—do not seem to loom on the horizon at present. Consequently the voting machine, for populous areas at least, seems to be the wise proposition.

"If elections are not to become a piece of tomfoolery, votes must be accurately and reliably counted. The machine will not count a single vote that has not been cast, and, furthermore, it will automatically prevent a careless voter from spoiling his ballot. The election board whose members cannot, immediately after the polls close, furnish the result for their election district will place themselves at once under suspicion.

"Almost every form of fraud which dozens of election boards in Allegheny county are under suspicion of committing at the primary election last September would have been impossible with the voting machine."

BILL WOULD JAIL DRY VIOLATORS

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Jail sentences for the first violation of the Volstead law are called for in a bill Representative Gilbert (D.) of Kentucky, introduced in the House yesterday.

Penalties provided were: First offense, fine up to $1,000 and two to six months in jail; second offense, fine of $100 to $2,000 and imprisonment from six months to five years.

P. R. R. VETERANS TO HOLD BANQUET TONIGHT

The Veterans' Association of the General Offices, Pennsylvania Railroad, will hold their annual banquet at 6 o'clock tonight at the Fort Pitt Hotel. Fred C. Hommel, retiring president, will introduce William T. Kerr, toastmaster. Addresses are to be made by Vice President E. T. Whiter, General Manager Leiper, Traffic Manager J. J. Koch, Secretary S. H. Church, Passenger Traffic Manager F. W. Conner, C. T. Kelly and Dr. Bartle, chief medical examiner. Afterward the members will see "The Ark."

WIFE ADMITS FORGING ASBY'S NAME ON CHECKS

Mrs. Mary Asby, who is contesting the divorce action of her husband, Gregory Asby, a steel worker of Oakmont, admitted in court that she had forged his name to a $1,000 check, which she cashed. However, she said, she returned the money to him.

The case, on trial two days before Judge George V. Moore in Common Pleas Court, is bitterly contested. Gregory testified to a continual round of abuse at the hands of his wife, who charges that Asby so abused their two sons that it made her angry. She admitted throwing objects at him.

CONVICT PAINTS ALTER

GEORGE E. ALTER

Photo of an oil painting of George E. Alter, former attorney general of Pennsylvania, and president of the Parting of the Ways Home, produced by a convict in the Michigan State penitentiary, which was presented to Mr. Alter today by Federal Judge W. H. S. Thomson, at the annual meeting of the board of directors of the home. The presentation came as a surprise to Mr. Alter, who knew nothing of the painting.

NEW CASTLE VETERAN, HIT BY AUTO, DIES

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—A Civil War veteran, 83, hit by an automobile here early yesterday, died last night in the Shenango Valley Hospital. The victim was J. Russell Ralph, of Highland avenue. The machine was said to have been driven by Ivor Richards. Mr. Ralph leaves his wife and several children.

Feel Dragged Out?

DURING the cold and fatigue of winter days, the human system often requires the strength-building aid of a good tonic. That's why Todd's Tonic is recommended from coast to coast. It has the strength-building qualities of rare, old wine. It builds vitality.

Made of Finest California Wine

No More Hemorrhoids

All Pile Agony Ended Without Cutting. Simple Internal Treatment Gives Quick Relief.

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting, he discovered the cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Every pile sufferer should benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no toughing or delay, May Drug Co. and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every pile sufferer should try Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID without delay.

The Doctor's Verdict

This case is critical. These colds when neglected often develop into pneumonia.

Doctors recommend hot Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea to break up a cold quickly, because the rich vitalizing herb juices heat up the chilled blood, increase your power and resistance, and purge dangerous germs from the system. Don't fool with a cold.

Ask your druggist for Bulgarian Herb Tea today. Costs but a few cents.

Will your skin bear close scrutiny?

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. Had a skin eruption. Was nervous, and had lost weight. After taking a course of S.S.S., I gained in weight; got rid of my nervousness; and my skin cleared up. I think S.S.S. is a most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

S.S.S. is made from the fresh roots of medicinal herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

ASKS WHITE SLAVE PROBE

GRACE ABBOTT

Miss Abbott, U. S. representative on the League of Nations' advisory committee at Geneva, has asked the league to start a world-wide investigation of white slave traffic.

BITTEN BY DOG, HUNTER DIES

Hydrophobia resulting from a bite by a hunting dog, November 2, caused the death early this morning in St. Francis Hospital of Frank Servino, of Monongahela City. The dog which bit Servino had been loaned to him. It lunged from a shipping crate and attacked Servino while he was on a hunting trip. The dog disappeared and it is believed may have infected other animals before dying.

UMBRELLA FOILS HOLDUP MEN

A neat parry and a shory, swift thrust put to rout two Negroes who attempted to rob Michael McDonough, 56, of 519 West Diamond street, last night. The weapon was not a fencing foil, but an umbrella which the attacked man carried.

McDonough was walking on Merchant street, North Side, when he was accosted by the two men, one of whom covered him with a revolver while the other demanded that he turn over his money. Instead of complying with either demand, McDonough used his umbrella to the best advantage, wounding one of the Negroes in the abdomen. His assailants fled.

TRIPLE CAST IN "THE KING'S HENCHMAN"

The organization which is to give "The King's Henchman" at Syria Mosque next Tuesday night is made up of a triple cast of principals, which means that each character has three separate exponents. This is done so that the organization is always prepared for emergencies, and also to avoid any of the voices showing wear or tear by reason of travel or too frequent appearances. "The King's Henchman," both in score and book, is said to be most trying on the artists and the directors.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

When You Catch Cold Rub On Musterole

Musterole is easy to apply and works right away. It may prevent a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made of oil of mustard and other home simples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh Girls Prove Attractive to Out-of-Town Men, Many of Whom Seek Them for Brides

QUITE a few announcements of engagements between Pittsburgh girls and out-of-town men have been made lately, and today another is added to the list. The George Stevens Pages, of Thomas boulevard, are announcing that their daughter, Pauline Stevens Page, is to marry Lesslie Stockton Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. S. Howell, of Haverford, Pa.

Pauline, as you know, is a granddaughter of William Page, the noted portrait painter, of New York and Florence, Italy. She is a Thurston girl and was graduated from Smith College in 1925. Mr. Howell is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1919.

Girls who were members of the bridal party at the wedding of Marcia LeMoyne and Louis Robinson Schmertz, Jr., which took place May 28, were guests at the luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, in her home, for Mrs. Schmertz. Covers were laid for 10. Mrs. Jacoby was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding, you will recall.

It soon will be time for the girls and boys who are at school to be returning for the holidays. One of them will be Anne Virginia Pugh, daughter of Mrs. Claude F. Pugh, of Thornburg, who, you remember, made her bow to society at a tea given November 5. Anne is expected home December 16 from Wellesley College.

Nearly everyone is planning either to have out-of-town members of their family here for Christmas or to join these relatives at their homes for the holidays. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patterson Beggs, of Kentucky avenue, are to leave for New York the Thursday before Christmas and will be with their son-in-law and daughter, the junior John Ray Schieffelins, for the holidays.

It would seem that most of the audience at the performance of the French marionettes Saturday afternoon in Carnegie Music Hall will be made up of children's parties. A number of those who are arranging these parties have already been announced, and added to the list are Mrs. A. K. Oliver, Mrs. James B. Drew, Mrs. J. P. McKinney, Jr., Mrs. George Bart Berger, Mrs. William Frew, Jr., Dorothy Beegle, Helen C. Watt and Mrs. Eric Fisher Wood.

* * *

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Caroline A. Beyer, of Ivy street, and L. Frank Raup, of Beaconhill avenue, Dormont, which was solemnized Thanksgiving Day in the First Lutheran Church by the Rev. Dr. A. J. Holl. A dinner in the home of the bride's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Schussler, followed. After an Eastern trip Mr. and Mrs. Raup will be at home in Beaconhill avenue.

DR. BAKER TELLS CLUB OF AMERICAN IDEALS

"America must overcome the present idea that to do is more important than to be," said Dr. Thomas S. Baker, speaking yesterday afternoon on "The American Mind" before the Woman's Club of Carnegie Institute of Technology. The women met in the Little Theater at Carnegie Tech and had as guests members of the faculty of Pennsylvania College for Women and of the Women's Association of the University of Pittsburgh.

"Europeans who attempt to understand the American mind are of two opinions," continued Dr. Baker, "the first that America is crass, material, selfish, heedless and constantly chasing after unworthy gold; the other that the country is full of ardor, confidence, youth and has spirituality. America's most precious possession is her vitality and capacity for enthusiasm; business may be her chief occupation, but it is not always pursued for material ends; there may be few thinkers or artists, but no nation gives more to education and to the alleviation of human suffering; generosity is a national trait; America may well be the cradle of a new culture and we may hope for something far more vigorous in an intellectual way than has ever been known before," the speaker said in part.

Also on the program was James C. Morehead, boy soprano, who gave two groups of songs with Matthew Frey at the piano. During the tea hour, which was spent in exhibition hall, Miss Mary Watson Green and Miss Mary Bidwell Breed poured.

Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, one of the best known club women in the country, will lecture on "The Road to Understanding" in the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church Saturday night under auspices of the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon Women's Christian Temperance Union. Music by Mrs. Lucille Miller Werner will be another feature of the program. The senior and junior classes of the Dormont High School are to be guests of the Union. Mrs. Pennybacker, who is a former president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and of the Chautauqua Women Club, has attended the sessions of the League of Nations in Geneva for the past three years. She will also address the pupils of the five Pittsburgh high schools during her stay here.

The advantages and handicaps of youth were discussed in several papers before the Mt. Lebanon Fortnightly Review yesterday when the members met in the home of Mrs. R. H. Hood, Wainbell avenue, Dormont. Mrs. R. T. Hood and Mrs. Hugh Lambie took up the physical and mental advantages and Mrs. E. C. McCown, the handicaps. Music was furnished by a quartet of high school girls, Virginia McCown, Constance Jones, Jean Charters and Mary Lambie, all daughters of club members.

The origin and significance, the legends and customs of mid-winter holidays, such as Christmas and Hanukah, will be discussed by various members of the Colfax Parent-Teacher Association at the meeting Tuesday night. Mrs. A. C. Amsler, Mrs. C. E. Lott, Mrs. M. Lehman, Mrs. R. Corey, Mrs. E. Hess and Mrs. L. Squietiere will be the speakers. Dances associated with the festivals will be presented by Miss Bertha Reeves, Miss Mabel Bodycomb, Miss Lucille Brown, Miss Tressie McCann, Miss Ruth Aston, Arthur Sprankle and Frank Sullivan, and appropriate music will be contributed by Mrs. E. C. Ludwig, Mrs. David Cooper, Miss Twila McLean and other vocalists, and Mrs. Ben Graham, Miss Betty Graham and Ben Graham, Jr., comprising an instrumental trio. Dickens' "Christmas Carol" will be told by Mrs. Leon Hansen.

Franklin Chapter No. 127, O. E. S., will hold a bazar on Tuesday evening in East End O. E. S. Temple, South Highland avenue, following a short meeting of the chapter. Mrs. Edith Adams and Mrs. Rachel Calhoun are in charge, assisted by Mrs. Anna Genge, Mrs. Virginia Stingel, Mrs. Edith Miller, Mrs. Francis Bingham, Mrs. Edna Bendsten and Mrs. Ruth Emrich, all of whom are past matrons of the chapter.

A Christmas sale will be held tomorrow in the parish house by the Woman's Guild of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg. Mrs. A. L. Humphrey is in charge of entertainment and others actively interested are Mrs. F. S. Bennett, Mrs. J. B. Crombie, Mrs. R. W. Hannan, Mrs. C. A. Silsby, Mrs. J. R. Newell, Mrs. H. J. Fox and Mrs. W. I. Timblin.

The Ladies' Community Club of Ingomar will meet at the home of Mrs. Chester Ferris Tuesday afternoon for the annual election of officers. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. A. Wagner, Mrs. William Craig, Mrs. P. H. Brunn, Mrs. P. O. Hare, Mrs. George Crawford and Mrs. J. Johnson.

A Christmas social and bazar will be held by Yogoda Sat Sanga tomorrow from 4 until 10:30 o'clock in Boyd's Hall, Penn avenue. At 7:30 a musical program will be given, followed by an exhibition of colored pictures of India never before shown in Pittsburgh.

* * *

The Thursday Noon Club for business women met today in the First Presbyterian Church. Music was furnished by Max Kroen, baritone, and Vincent Kroen, tenor, accompanied by Miss Annalene Harper.

An interpretive reading of Robinson's "Tristram" by Mrs. A. C. Manning and a paper by Mrs. K. C. Randall on William Blake, poet, artist and mystic, made up yesterday's program for the meeting of the Edgewood Woman's Club.

Mrs. J. B. Johnston is to be hostess to the Turtle Creek Woman's Club tomorrow. Mrs. Anna Marshall McCracken will speak on "Christmas in Picture, Song and Story."

* * *

Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh will address the Squirrel Hill Community Club at its meeting in the Roosevelt School tomorrow, speaking on "The House of My Dreams."

The junior section of the Woman's Club of Crafton will hold its annual charity bridge Saturday afternoon in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The proceeds will be given to the Brashear Settlement. Mrs. Darwin Carroll is general chairman and assisting her are Miss Grace Hershberger, Mrs. William Lehew, Miss Bertha Glazier, Mrs. Wallace Bell, Miss Lillian Cunningham, Mrs. Wayland Bowser, Miss Charlotte Eckert, Mrs. Gerald Mead, Miss Nancy Stotz and Mrs. Rody Patterson.

The Prytaneum Study Club is planning a theater party for the night of January 2.

RETURNING FOR HOLIDAYS

MISS JANE KEALLY

Miss Jane Keally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Love Keally, will return shortly from Highland Hall for the holidays.

Airplane Fall Aids Hearing

Her hearing partially restored by an airplane drop of 9,500 feet, Mrs. S. M. Knechtel, Beverly Hills, Cal., is now taking weekly "falls" with an aviator in hopes of effecting a complete cure of her deafness. Persuaded by her daughter to try the airplane drop, Mrs. Knechtel was able to hear a doorbell, an auto horn and other loud noises for the first time in 20 years.

Dead Gypsy Ruler Takes Food Along To Next World

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Funeral rites of the ancient Pharaohs, who believed the soul needed food, gems, and money for its last journey, are to be revived here at the burial of "Prince" John Tovano, gypsy patriarch.

The body of the gypsy ruler today lies in state in a steel casket heavily lacquered with silver. He has been equipped for his passage across the River Styx with a wash cloth, handkerchief, needle and thread, jewels, and specially prepared foods. All these lie beside him in the coffin.

A fabric boutonniere of rainbow hue bedecks one lapel of a new gray suit, cut collegiate style, despite that its wearer was 85.

"Prince" John will greet Charon, wearing new tan kid gloves, and a brown fedora hat.

PROTEST GAINS WELFARE AID FOR BLIND

The Association for the Blind is able to take care of only a small percentage of the 750 sightless persons in Pittsburgh, State Representative Martin Dunn, himself blind, told Council yesterday when he appeared to protest against the exclusion of sightless men and women from the proposed Special Bureau of Service for Handicapped Citizens. As the result of his protest Mrs. Enoch Raub, head of the Welfare Department, who is seeking $8,400 for the bureau, agreed to include blind among the handicapped to be helped.

Representative Dunn charged the Association for the Blind with creating the impression that it is caring for all of the sightless in Pittsburgh, while in reality it employs only about 50 in its workshop and others are forced to solicit alms on the streets. He asked Council to take some action to stop police prosecution of such men and women.

Dr. Edward Clopper, Dr. Francis Tyson, A. K. Oliver, David Terry and Simon T. Patterson urged creation of the new bureau. The $8,400 asked, with the exception of $500 for supplies, is for salaries of a supervisor, field worker, stenographer and clerk. A number of speakers appeared to ask for an increased appropriation for the Mental Health Clinic.

'Funny Folks' Proves Year's Best Seller

Stars of the newspaper's daily theater—"All the Funny Folks," are now on sale in hundreds of stores and news stands throughout the tristate district.

Containing the capers of your favorite mimic folk, this story book is not only well written, but it presents to those children who are too young to intelligently read jingles, 500 illustrations in colors. And the illustrations are active, designed to capture a child's fancy and entertain to the fullest measure.

Dealers everywhere have expressed their admiration for the book—not only because it is the best seller that Pittsburgh district has had for many years, but because many of them presented the children they knew with them. Adults everywhere have enjoyed the jingles themselves—those who have read the books. All have agreed that "All the Funny Folks" is an ideal Christmas gift. Home-made, but Ends Coughs In a Hurry

A family supply of dependable cough medicine. Easily made and saves about $2

If you have a severe cough or chest cold, with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up at night with a hoarse cough, and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified honey, if desired. This makes a pint of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes of the throat and bronchial tubes with an ease and promptness that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The 20-Year War on Fat

Mark the results

In the early part of this century research men discovered a cause of excess fat. It lies in lack of certain elements required in proper nutrition.

They found a way to supply those elements, and many tests were made. First on animals, then on people. The results established a new method of combating excess fat.

That method was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. For 20 years the overfat have used them—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. That is one reason why slender figures so prevail today.

No abnormal exercise, no starvation diet. Moderation helps, but radical methods are not advised. Users of Marmola take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, then they stop.

Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. Users know just what they are taking, and why. So they have no fear of harm.

If you overweigh, try this scientific method. Do it because of the results it has brought to so many, for so long. Do it for new beauty, new health and vitality. Start today. Give Marmola a chance to show you what it does.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHY MEN COME HOME

"WHY girls leave home" has never been such a baffling question as why men COME HOME. And keep on coming home, day after day and year after year!

* * *

What is it that keeps the average tame husband moving like a shuttle between his wife and his stenographer—and back to his wife?

Well, most of them come home from force of habit. It becomes a purely mechanical process, and relieves a man of the mental exertion of thinking of something ELSE to do.

HELEN ROWLAND

Lots of men come home because at the end of a hard day at the office they are too TIRED to go anywhere else. Home is the logical place in which to relax and "be yourself." It is the only place where a man can take off his manners with his office coat and be as grouchy, as nervous or as irritable as he feels. It takes all a woman's tact and wheedling to persuade a really "tired business man" to take his mental and physical fatigue anywhere BUT "home!"

* * *

ALL men come home when they are ailing or feeling seedy. That is one time in every married man's life when home looks to him more like a goal, than a gaol, and when he can't get there quickly enough.

* * *

When a man is sick, the only thing on earth he is interested in is his "symptoms," and hurrying to a place where he can curl down amongst the pillows and have somebody hold his hand, take his temperature, and help him feel sorry for himself.

Some men check in at the same old stand, pretty regularly, for self-protection.

Of course, there will be some cynical wives, who will be amazed to learn that there ARE any husbands who DO come home, every evening.

* * *

But, you'd be surprised! The world is full of them! Dear, patient, plodding, harness-broken husbands, who would as soon think of committing hari kari or of wearing their coats wrong-side-out as of not going straight home from the office. Try and STOP them!

Girl's Love Suicide Lesson, Says Fay King

NO PITY! ONLY RESENTMENT AND HATE ARE HER REWARD!
TOO MANY GIRLS HAVE LEARNED THE BITTER LESSON OF LOVING NOT WISELY BUT TOO WELL!
THE LETTERS OF THIS POOR DEAD GIRL SHOULD BE A WARNING TO OTHER GIRLS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

A YOUNG unmarried woman destroyed herself before the door of the apartment of the young man she alleged was the father of her unborn child and who had jilted her.

It is only the sorrowful ending of another unwise love affair!

The letters she left for the young man should be read and remembered by every girl who might sometimes find herself about to care unwisely.

Many girls have placed too much faith in unmeant promises.

They have found too late that they have been the victims of men who fooled them.

Even when they destroy themselves, as this girl did, their death does not arouse pity in the men's hearts. They wished to be rid of them.

They feel only resentment and hate for their injured reputations.

"You say you never loved me, but you know, and I know, that you thought a great deal of me at one time."

"I made my last appeal to you tonight and I see it was in vain. I thought you might have softened and seen matters in a different light."

"It seems that nobody cares whether I live or die. I thought you did once, but guess I was sadly mistaken. I am just another poor little fool to be kicked around like a football.

"When you are dancing with another girl and holding another in your arms, just remember that you once danced with me and held me in your arms. Be fair and square with the other girl, and remember that I enjoyed life the same as she, and don't whisper sweet nothings that do not mean anything to you, for she, even as I, may be broken hearted, too."

Countless letters, much like these, that never reach the public eye have passed between unhappy girls who appeal in vain to the men who wish to be rid of them!

Not all such unhappy girls destroy themselves. But they have suffered and learned their bitter lesson!

Sorrow, neglect, humiliation, and hate, are almost always the inevitable ending of these affairs!

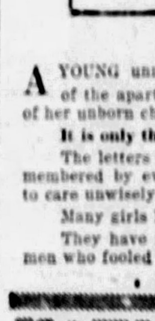
Have an Interest, Do Useful Work, for Serene Old Age

I LOVE old people. It does my soul good to hear about their successful battles with disease and death.

What causes me to write this way is a conversation I had with a charming friend of mine. He is well along on life's journey. When I complimented him on his youthful appearance, he replied:

"That's nothing. My father was one of nine brothers, every one of whom lived to be 90. One died at 106 and another at 103."



DR. COPELAND

That is wonderful, isn't it?

On the same day came a letter from a man in Nashville, Tenn. He describes himself as a "working printer." He is past 86, but says he "helps out" in the printing office every day, is "always ready for meals" and enjoys vigorous health.

Last summer I spoke at the Michigan Society picnic in Los Angeles. On the platform was a man 110 years old. He is the oldest person I ever saw. A bit hard of hearing, but the faculties and nimble wit of our friend were as good as we would expect a man of 70 to possess.

If you want to die, sit down and invite death. If you want to live keep busy. Be occupied with things which hold your interest.

It makes no difference what you do. Dr. Frank Crane will keep busy writing entertaining and instructive essays. My printer friend will keep his muscles pliable and his wits clear by working in the print shop. Another young old man cares for his furnace, clears the walks of snow, and reads substantial books in the wintertime. In summer he works in his garden and keeps his dooryard tidy.

These men are not old. Certainly Dr. Crane isn't. But they know how to keep from getting old. They do it by continuing to do the things they do well and like to do.

Some days I feel a hundred years old, but honestly, I am not going to be permanently old if I can help it. I purpose keeping at my work till the crack of doom.

Why isn't that a good decision for each of us? Why not make up our minds to avoid crutches, canes, wheeled-chairs, having other people hold our coats, and shivering in the cold?

Let us walk briskly, be animated in our contacts with people, and maintain a lively interest in all the affairs of the day. To make this the daily program will keep the blood in circulation, preserve the elasticity of the muscles, and cause the brain to function youthfully.

Let us join the "Hundred Year Club" and determine to be active members of the organization.

Frenchie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl in my late teens. Three years ago I met a fellow whom I took a great liking to. I have gone out with him several times, but lately our friendship has waned. Three months ago I moved away from the town in which he lives, and when I see him he doesn't speak to me. How can I regain his friendship, which I greatly value? I heartily agree with you on the kissing, smoking and petting questions.

FRENCHIE.

I am sorry, my dear, but if this boy refuses to speak to you and has, as you say, gradually lost his friendship for you, then there is nothing you can do about it. Try to put him out of your mind and make new friends.

Kay

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am going with a young man, and the other night we were discussing a certain birthday party, to which we are both going, and also what kind of a present we would give our friend. He then asked me what I wanted for my birthday and I immediately told him that I didn't wish him to give me anything because he was too good to me as if it was. He asked me if I would like to have "nineteen roses." Can you tell me the significance of this expression? I will not be 19, so it can not mean a rose-bud for each year. This has puzzled me greatly and I would be very grateful to you if you could answer this question for me.

KAY.

I don't know either, Kay. Why not ask him?

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

DOUGHNUTS

your sons will fondly remember

I DON'T know why almost every man recalls his mother's cooking by the doughnuts she used to make—but he does.

Doughnuts seem to be one sure way to the heart of every boy from six to sixty.

Here are three of my favorite recipes for doughnuts about which your sons will tell their sons with fond recollection. Deep fried in Crisco they are rich, yet digestible—never a bit greasy. And, remember, at the proper frying temperature Crisco fries without smoke or unpleasant odor—without waste, too; for you can use the same Crisco for frying over and over again.

Doughnuts

|---|---|
| ⅔ cup sugar | 2 teaspoons baking powder |
| 1½ tablespoons Crisco | ¼ teaspoon cinnamon |
| 1 egg | ¼ teaspoon clove |
| ½ cup milk | ¼ teaspoon mace |
| 2 cups flour | ½ teaspoon salt |

Cream sugar and Crisco together. Add well beaten egg and milk and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, cinnamon, clove, mace and salt. Add to the first mixture and mix thoroughly. Turn out on slightly floured board and roll to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter and fry in deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.) until a delicate brown. Drain on unglazed paper. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar before serving.

This recipe makes 24 doughnuts.

Raised Doughnuts

|---|---|
| ⅔ cup sugar | 1 yeast cake |
| 3 tablespoons Crisco | 2 tablespoons lukewarm water |
| 1 teaspoon salt | 5 cups flour |
| 1 cup scalded milk | 2 eggs |
| | 1 teaspoon nutmeg |

Add sugar, Crisco and salt to the scalded milk. When lukewarm add the yeast cake mixed with warm water. Add enough flour to make a sponge (about 2 cups). Set in a warm place to rise. When light add well beaten eggs, nutmeg and enough flour to make a soft dough. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Knead until free from large air bubbles.

Roll out on a slightly floured board to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with a doughnut cutter, cover and set in a warm place to rise again until double in bulk. Put them top side down in the deep hot Crisco (340 to 375 degrees F.). Fry on one side, turn and fry on the other side. When a delicate brown remove from fat and drain on unglazed paper. Just before serving sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

This recipe makes 30 doughnuts.

Jelly Doughnuts

Follow recipe for Raised Doughnuts. After the second rising, roll out on a slightly floured board to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with a cooky cutter. Put one teaspoon currant jelly in the center of one round, moistened edges with water and place another round on top. Press edges lightly together. Cover and set in a warm place to rise until double in bulk. Fry in the same way as Raised Doughnuts.

This recipe makes 24 doughnuts.

MEXICO TRIED TO TAMPER WITH U. S. SENATE

PLAN TO SPEND $1,200,000 SHOWN

A translation of the Elias letter follows:

New York, N. Y.,
July 1, 1926.

Senor Plutarco Elias Calles,
President of the Republic,
Mexico, D. F.

My Dear Brother:

This letter, perfectly sealed, will be delivered by Roberto Haberman, who is going to Mexico City on a special mission. Haberman is absolutely ignorant of the contents of the letter, as I have taken precautions that this affair be carried forward with all possible reserve.

I have just returned from Washington, where I conferred at length with Tellez (Mexican ambassador to the United States) over the affair of Senator ——. I was able to convince him, after no few difficulties, of the necessity which exists of taking measures of this nature for our protection, outside of diplomatic channels. Today I had also a conference with Mr. —— ——, intermediary agent in this matter, informing him that he might communicate to his principal that the business has been approved, and that it only remains for the funds to be transferred from Mexico to a bank in this city (New York), in order to dispose of them in a form which will raise no suspicion.

Urges Action

Now that the greatest difficulties in this matter have been conquered, I hope that you will issue the necessary orders for the transfer of funds to this agency in the ordinary manner and as quickly as possible. If there are some observations you may care to make to the memorandum of Senator —— which you have, communicate them to me in order that I may inform —— —— before delivering the funds; otherwise I shall place them at his disposition without adding a single word.

As always, your brother who loves you,

AME/EL.

The foregoing is a translation from a carbon copy of a letter dictated by Arturo M. Elias, and, unlike the majority of Mexican documents used in this series, is not an original. The signature of Senor Elias, therefore, does not appear, but only his initials, as typed by the stenographer.

In this letter to President Calles, Elias again complained of the attitude of the Mexican ambassador to the United States, Manuel C. Tellez. He wrote that he had been able to convince Tellez of the necessity of the proposed arrangement with Senator ——, "after no few difficulties." Tellez, as explained in yesterday's article, had opposed the project on the ground that it might result in injuring diplomatic relations between Mexico and the United States, instead of bettering them.

Duplicity

The Mexican government's attempt to tamper with Senator —— came at a time —— the summer of 1926 ——, when President Calles was busiest in his efforts to injure the United States in Nicaragua and elsewhere.

The American State Department and Mexican Foreign Office were conducting at the same time a diplomatic dispute over the radical land and oil legislation which the Calles administration had just adopted. Calles and his principal advisers were much worked up about American objections to their pet land and oil laws, but the depth of their resentment was not even dimly suspected until, some months later, the State Department obtained "conclusive evidence" that Mexico was behind the anti-American revolution in Nicaragua.

Even then, there were few who could have believed that Mexico would go to the extent of pledging the Liberal Government it was seeking to install in Nicaragua to call a special session of the national congress, once it got in power, for the purpose of abrogating the Bryan-Chamorro treaty under which the United States obtained the right to build the proposed Nicaragua canal. And fewer persons still could have conceived of Mexico suggesting to Japan a secret treaty providing for Japanese colonization of the Nicaraguan canal zone and Japanese military aid in a war with the United States.

Backed by Saenz

It was while these and other anti-American plans were fermenting in the minds of President Calles and his cabinet members that the New York City financial Agent of the Mexican government conceived the scheme of naming a member of the United States Senate as the principal beneficiary of a $1,200,000 fund, to be delivered through an "intermediary agent."

Aaron Saenz, Mexican minister of foreign relations, was one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the plan to tamper with the highest American legislative body by giving money to one of its most influential members. While Ambassador Tellez and Alberto J. Pani, secretary of the treasury, apparently thought the scheme was both risky and costly, Minister Saenz approved it whole-heartedly. This approval was communicated to Senor Elias in a telegram dated July 8, 1926. The Hearst papers have both the code telegram and the decoded Spanish text of this message. The English translation follows:

Mexico, D. F.,
July 8, 1926.

Senor Arturo M. Elias,
Consul General of Mexico,
New York, N. Y.

"Your code telegram of today, I felicitate you much on arrangements with Senator which you indicate to me in your letter of July 1. The Citizen President already has ordered transferred to you the funds indicated, conducting the operation in a secret form. I felicitate you for your success. I salute you."

Saenz.

[Tomorrow's installment of this series will reveal how $1,215,000 was ordered paid to four high officials of the American government at a time when affairs between this country and Mexico were at a crisis.]

Terrible skin now lovely and clear

"AFTER three months of regular treatment," writes Miss A., "I now have the clear complexion I used to dream about and long for. Only the girl who has suffered as I did, with continual eruptions on my face just when I wanted to look my best, can know how I felt. I feel I owe a lifelong debt of gratitude to the friend who told me the best thing to do. There's nothing like it. I tried everything and I know. Lotions and salves help but they don't get at the root of the trouble. Like most skin troubles mine were signs of poison in the body. Nujol cleared those all out in three months. I took a tablespoonful every night. Never missed once. I've got my reward now."

DARROW UPHOLDS REMUS' REPUTATION AT TRIAL

TELLS OF WIFE'S PLOT TO KILL RUM KING

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Dec. 8.—Testimony of Clarence Darrow, internationally famous lawyer, that the reputation of George Remus as a practicing lawyer in Chicago was good, and the assertion of Harry Truesdale, sullen-faced gunman of Hamilton, O., that Mrs. Imogene Remus laid in wait for Remus with a pistol in her hand, were the high spots of the Remus trial today.

Remus shot and killed Mrs. Remus on October 6, last, the day after Truesdale related details of the alleged plot in which Truesdale was to have killed the renowned bootleg king.

Truesdale told the court and jury further details concerning his employment by Mrs. Remus to kill her husband. She had offered him $10,000, half of it to be paid by Franklin L. Dodge, her reputed paramour, he said. It was a continuation of the testimony that yesterday completely unnerved Remus and sent him from the courtroom in a hysterical condition.

3 'SUGAR BABIES' ARRESTED

Two "Sugar Babies" appeared in Morals Court this morning and a third forfeited $15 by her non-appearance, following a party by members of the cast of "Sugar Babies," in their hotel this morning.

According to testimony before Magistrate Brandon, Elsie Cress and her sister, Anna, were entertaining friends when Charles Sheld, also a member of the company, entered their room. Elsie testified that Sheld had been drinking and insisted that she drink. A fight followed and police were summoned.

Elsie and Charles were charged with disorderly conduct and Anna with drunkenness. Anna failed to appear. Sheld was fined $10 and Elsie discharged.

CALLES' PLOT PROBE ASKED

SECOND NEWS SECTION THE SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS FEATURES

DEFENDS BLIND BEGGARS

Matthew Dunn, blind representative in the General Assembly from the Twelfth Legislative District, appeared in Morals Court this morning to plead the case of A. P. Davis, 45, and his wife, Louisa, of McKees Rocks, both blind, charged with begging.

"The institutions caring for the blind in Allegheny county cannot take care of more than 10 per cent of the blind in this district," Dunn told Magistrate E. M. Hough. He challenged the magistrate to call a designated organization by telephone to see if work could be obtained for Davis and his wife.

Magistrate Hough reserved decision.

Calles' Plot Probe Asked in Congress

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8. — Congressional investigation of the Mexican government's interference in American affairs, exposed in the Hearst newspapers, was called for in resolutions filed in the House yesterday by Representative Loring M. Black (Dem.), of New York.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs was empowered in the resolutions to require the production of all documents in the possession of publications under the control of William Randolph Hearst, regarding Mexican intrigue in Nicaragua and elsewhere at variance with policies pursued by the United States.

Direction was given to the committee to inquire into the authenticity of these documents and also inquire into the transactions which are the subject matter of the documents.

Officials of the State Department and all other persons who may be able to shed light on the series of articles now running in the Hearst newspapers on Mexican intrigue would be called before the committee.

The resolutions were referred to the Rules Committee, of which Representative Snell of New York is chairman.

Georgette Promises Brooks To Meet Him on Steamer And Go to Italy

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ann and Georgie Hastings, sisters, live together in Mrs. O'Leary's boarding house. Ann, the elder, works in a factory and Georgie in an insurance office. Ann is proud of her sister's good looks and charming manners and pleads with her to accept the attentions of Bill Warren, who is madly in love with her, and to have nothing more to do with Ernest Brooks, a chance acquaintance who has been rushing her. Bill makes a confidant of Ann and proposes to Georgie, who refuses him. Ann's solicitude for her sister ends in a quarrel between the two, and Ann becomes conscious that she herself is fond of Bill, and the day after the quarrel he asks her to have lunch with him. During lunch he shows he is still devoted to Georgie, and Ann asks him why he doesn't call on her sister that evening. Bill comes to the boarding house and after waiting for Georgie sees her arrive with Ernest. Georgie vindictively tells Bill she doesn't care if she never sees him again, and in desperation he turns to Ann and asks her if she would be willing to go out with him now and then. Ann discovers that Bill has been drinking and shows her great disappointment in him, but resolves to do all she can to help him. Meanwhile Georgie, in a spirit of adventure, goes to call on Ernest in his studios. He proposes a trip abroad with her, promising to marry her when they get to Italy. Georgie leaves his studio, telling him that was impossible.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"OH, BUT I do—at least I think I do. I'd rather be with you than anyone. I've never met any other man like you. I—I don't know what to say—I don't know what to tell you."

"I want you to tell me with action—not with words. The Carinthia sails tomorrow night—9 o'clock. I've got passage booked, everything, a passport made out—you only have to slip your picture on it—I can fix everything. I want you to come along with me."

"But—but there's Ann—you want me to hurt Ann—"

"It won't do her any harm, will it? I just want to teach her a lesson. Are you going to be bossed by her all your life long? Why don't you show her you can run yourself for once? Why, when you and I get to Italy—"

He turned before she expected, and put his arms around her. He kissed her mouth, held her close to him, murmured words in a lover's voice, praised her eyes and hair, told her he could not live without her.

And she was caught up by a kind of spell, so that when she broke away she could not think at all, and her head was whirling.

"Let me go, Ernest, let me go!"

"I want your answer."

"I tell you I don't know, I don't know!" Then all at once she gave a cry that was half despairing. She caught up her hat, almost ran to the door, closed it behind her, hurried down the stairs. Sobs choked her. Why was she so unhappy—why was she so troubled and desperate? Had she really said goodby? Wouldn't she ever see him again? Why, she must be in love with him! She would never find a man like him again. And—he was just different. That was all. He really loved her. Of course he loved her. Why had she run away like that? She must tell him, she must try to explain. A drug store on the corner seemed to beckon her. She went inside and called his number.

CHAPTER XXIII.

SHE jangled the 'phone-hook impatiently. The operator was maddeningly slow. She repeated her number in an acid voice, heard it monotonously echoed. And again she waited.

Then at last there was the buzz of the connection. It went on and on. He couldn't have gone out, he must be there still!

All at once she heard his voice, and in the tide of relief that swept over her, she realized suddenly that she did not know yet what it was she planned to say.

But the words came unthinkingly, words that trembled on her lips.

"Oh, Ernest, I don't know why I ran away, I really don't. Only I'm so unhappy. You've made me unhappy, yes you have."

His voice was cold as ice, as formal as an introduction.

"I told you where I stood. I tried to make you understand. And you ran away. Well, I'm not going to argue any more. You know what I'm asking. There isn't anything else to say."

"Oh, don't be unfair. Give me a chance. You don't know what I'm going through."

"Don't you think I'm going through something, too, he asked.

"But your mind is made up. And I'm confused—I can't answer you. It's different with me. After all, it means my whole life, Ernest!"

There was a long silence before he spoke again. Then he said, in a tone that was level and cool and controlled:

"I'll be on that boat tomorrow night. I hope you'll be there, too."

There was a short click. She began to speak again, wildly, hysterically, but she knew she was speaking to nothingness. He had rung off.

Then a despair seized her that was beyond easy tears. She felt lifeless, beaten, forlorn. She went outside and got on a trolley car. She was not thinking, and yet she was seeing nothing around her. Everything was as mechanical as the episodes of a dream. She felt as if she were in a trance.

It was late—much later than she had thought. Getting out at the familiar corner and walking towards the house, she thought of Ann. Ann must be in bed by this time. So she and Bill were really going about together. She and Bill!

It was strange the way things happened! She could have gotten Bill once by crooking her little finger. She could get him still for that matter. He and Ann were just playing around. He never could fall for Ann, and Ann, of course, would some day marry a great man, rather a solemn, learned man, not at all like Bill.

Georgie went up the stairs softly. She was so anxious to conceal her own late arrival, that she did not scrutinize her sister, lying there with her head pressed to the pillow. She got into bed as quietly as possible. For a while she stared into the darkness with wide eyes. She was able to think now, and wished only that she might stop thinking.

By an effort she forced her attention away from the momentous thing that filled her vision. Presently she, too, slept, not knowing that all this while Ann was still wide awake.

In the morning Georgie rose with a feeling of having rested badly. Her brain moved slowly. She went on to the office in a bad humor, which was not helped by having it called to her attention that the leases she had stayed to finish on the previous afternoon, were still incompleted.

What did it matter now what they thought about her? If they only knew what was happening to her! Why she might walk off forever in just a few hours. They could find someone else for their stupid old job!

The thought of the big boat at the pier, of the trunks that were going aboard, the passengers getting ready, the preparations for the trip, filled her imagination. She could think of nothing else. Oh, Ernest did love her—how could she doubt it? The things he had said—the unforgettable things—the way he had kissed her.

Why, even his cold, angry, determined voice over the wire last night told her so. He must love her really and deeply, and he was a strong man. She shivered a little. So strong that he'd always have his way—in everything.

In the morning a girl came in, a girl who had worked here when she first came to the place, but who had left shortly afterwards to marry.

She was living in a little house now in the suburbs—Georgie knew the kind. Twenty on a block and all the same with baby carriages on the screened front porch, and a line of washing in the backyard. The girl was proud of her new life, and tried to explain how happy and fortunate she was, but Georgie looked at her with wondering eyes.

What an empty outlook—that kind of marriage—some man who worked and worked and worked—who bought a cheap little car, grumbled about his food, boasted about his cleverness, never gave her half enough money for clothes, never took her to anything except an occasional movie.

Was that all that life offered? Oh, there was no use fooling oneself. A couple of months of rapture and hope, followed by all that terrible dullness and work and worry until the end, which was death itself.

"I won't," Georgie told herself. "I won't!" Life must be better than that, must be gayer and finer and more vivid.

To sail to Italy, live in Paris, accept adventures on their own terms, enjoy the unexpected—that was something. It was hers if she cared to stretch out her hand.

She was called into the office just before noon, and scolded for some slip-shod typewriting. An impulse swept over her, and she followed it blindly.

She walked out of the office with a quiet smile. She walked out of it, telling herself she would never come back to it again.

When she had lunch at the little restaurant where she usually ate she did not go back to the office. She made her way homewards. How strange it seemed to be going home now, at this time of day! It gave her a foretaste of what freedom would mean—no job, nothing to bother her, nothing to except follow her whim and her mood.

She was determined now, but she would not let herself reason. She did not dare halt to think or consider, for fear she might fall prey once more to those paralyzing doubts and confusions.

Deliberately she packed the bag that belonged to her. She must leave so many things behind. But then perhaps they did not matter. Ernest would see she had everything she wanted—everything in the world.

How long had she known this little room? Was it almost three years? No wonder something tugged at her heart now, a sense of grave foreboding, a feeling of infinite loss. She was tearing up stakes, taking the strange opportunity that had come to her, facing the future with a reckless spirit. But she mustn't start thinking, she mustn't start thinking!

The packing was done so much quicker than she had planned. It was scarcely mid-afternoon yet. The boat wasn't to sail till 9. What should she do until then? What was there left to do?

One thing, of course—tell Ann. She couldn't tell her face to face, but she could write her a note. It would be better not to tell the

Public Urged to Protest Continuance of "Nuisance" Tax on Amusement Tickets

THEATER managers of Pittsburgh are up in arms against the proposed continuance of a tax on amusements, understood to be included in the new Federal revenue measures. They designate the tax on admissions to theaters as "the last of the nuisance taxes" and they are asking the public to protest to their representatives in Congress against the continuance of this tax, which would add 10 per cent to admissions of $1 or more. At a meeting of the Theater Managers' Association in the office of President D. A. Harris in the Davis Theater Building, theater men adopted a resolution, requesting the aid of the public in this matter. It follows:

Whereas, the Congress of the United States, now in session in the National Capitol in Washington, is about to enact a new tax bill, and

Whereas, it appears that the Ways and Means Committee propose to recommend the continuance of the existing 10 per cent tax on theater admissions over $1, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh, realizing the injustice and hardship which such a tax imposes upon the theater-going public, and in view of the fact that all other nuisance taxes imposed as means of wartime relief have been abolished, it is now

Resolved, to call upon all citizens of Western Pennsylvania who attend places of public amusement to immediately telegraph their respective members of Congress expressing their earnest protest against the continuance of the said theaters' admission tax; and it is further

Resolved, that, in view of the depression prevalent in the legitimate theatrical business throughout the entire country, and especially in places remote from the largest centers of population, the remission of these taxes is absolutely essential if the languishing legitimate drama is ever again to flourish, and be it still further

Resolved, that we, as managers and owners representing all classes of theaters, do our utmost to impress upon the members of Congress our earnest recommendation that the unfair discrimination involved in a continuance of the existing admission tax shall be abolished in any legislation which the Congress may pass for the raising of revenues.

The action of the Theater Managers' Association of Pittsburgh is in conformity with a widespread national movement on the part of theater owners to have the admission tax officially abolished. More than 500,000 persons are employed in the theaters of this country, and to many of these the tax on admissions is a vital thing, since it is felt that it has especially militated against the legitimate theater employment and, to a large extent, is considered responsible for the present low state of the drama.

The revenue bill will be argued in the House this week, and the admission tax subject will probably come up Friday or Saturday. It is said that the Ways and Means Committee will recommend that the tax be continued on all tickets in excess of $1. The present tax is on admissions in excess of 75 cents. Theater owners believe that it is not only highly injurious to the business of the theater to have the tax continued, but also that it is discriminatory, inasmuch as all the other nuisance taxes imposed to raise funds during the war, which ended nearly 10 years ago, have since been abolished.

A protest has been sent to Congress from New York over the signatures of the Theater Owners of America, Producing Managers' Association, Actors' Equity Association, Authors' League of America, the Dramatists' Guild, the Society of American Authors and Composers, Federation of Union Musicians and the International Society of Theatrical Stage Employes.

It is believed that individual protests from theater patrons would have much weight with their representatives. Those who act on that suggestion are urged to do so promptly.

Telling Him About It

JOAN CRAWFORD holds in her hand an announcement of a reward that interrupts the solitaire game Rockliffe Fellowes is playing. The interested stick whittler is Harvey Clark and all of them are players in "The Understanding Heart," a Cosmopolitan Production based on Peter B. Kyne's tale, which will be in Loew's Aldine next week.

British Airman Aids In Filming of War Play

Lieut. Howard Blanchard, former member of Col. William Bishop's flying unit, and holder of the Croix de Guerre, was yesterday appointed technical director of "Hell's Angels." This is Howard Hughes' second United Artists release, in which Greta Nissen, Ben Lyon, James Hall and Louis Wolheim appear, under direction of Luther Reed. Lieut. Blanchard, former British flying ace, was shot down on August 8, 1918, by Baron Richtofen's "flying circus." Severely injured, he managed to escape with his life. "Hell's Angels" is a story of the Royal Flying Corps, of which Lieut. Blanchard was a member. The lieutenant previously served as technical authority on "Wings."

From Tech

HARRY MERVIS

Mr. Mervis, graduate of the drama department, Carnegie Institute of Technology, will be in Harry Beresford's "The Old Soak" company in the Davis next week. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Mervis, 319 Ninth avenue, Homestead.

COTTON PICKERS TO BE AT SANDERS SATURDAY

The Cotton Pickers, a dance orchestra composed of Negro musicians, will furnish the music in Sanders, Freeport highway, Aspinwall, Saturday night. This will mark the first appearance of the orchestra in Pittsburgh.

STAGE BILLS FOR NEXT WEEK

Lenore Harris portrays one of the important roles in the mystery thriller, "Wooden Kimono," which will be the attraction in the Nixon next week. The seats are on sale today.

There will be a matinee performance today of "The Ark," Alice Brady's new play, which is the attraction in the Pitt.

"Yours Truly," which made its debut here last season, is scheduled for a return engagement in the Alvin next week, following runs in New York and other metropolitan centers. The cast is headed by Leon Errol and includes Gertrude Lang, Douglas Stevenson, the London Tiller Girls, Vera Myers, Theodore Babcock, Tom Waters, Elizabeth Duray, Forrest Yarnall, Vie Casmore and Lotta Fanning. Seats are on sale today.

The vaudeville program booked for the Davis next week features Harry Beresford, comedian, in a condensation, "The Old Soak." On the screen will be "Girls Wanted," starring Janet Gaynor.

Danny Duggan, winner of more than 100 dance tournaments, will top the vaudeville in the Harris next week. Mr. Duggan also will conduct a dance contest with eliminations on the first four days and the final contest Friday night. The screen attraction will be "The Harvester," taken from Gene Stratton-Porter's novel.

Vaudeville in the Sheridan Square Theater next week will include "Compliance Attention," a miniature musical comedy act. The screen attractions will be Janet Gaynor in "2 Girls Wanted" and Zane Grey's "Open Range," with Betty Bronson as the star.

Carmel Myers plays the role of Kelcey, unfaithful wife of a forester, in "The Understanding Heart," the Cosmopolitan production of Peter B. Kyne's novel, coming to Loew's Aldine next week. Jack Conway directed this picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and the cast includes Joan Crawford, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., Rockliffe Fellowes and others.

"The Missing Link" will be featured on the screen in the Olympic next week, starring popular Syd Chaplin. On the Vitaphone J. and J. Trigg and John Maxwell will be heard in songs.

Paul Whiteman, who brings his jazz orchestra to the Penn next week, is said to receive the highest salary ever paid to an act for a continuous route of theaters. The picture for the week will be "Tea for Three," with Lew Cody, Aileen Pringle and Owen Moore.

Hurtig and Seamon, for many years prominent as producers of burlesque, will bring their "Girls of the U. S. A." to the Academy next week, with Norma Noel and George Carroll in the leading roles.

The stage attraction in the Grand next week will be Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge." Featured on the screen will be "Underworld," starring George Bancroft, Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent.

Police Are Guests At Showing of Gang Film

Several hundred patrolmen, detectives and police department officials saw how their brethren of the moving picture world fight—and are successful—against gangland at a special showing of "Underworld" in the Grand today. There were other invited guests, and they, too, were interested spectators at the screening of this thrilling melodrama, which will be the feature picture in the regular program of the Grand next week.

"Underworld" shows the gangsters at work and at play, at the height of "life" that has only a satanic slant, and at the moment when the law gets its chance to prove that it cannot be evaded successfully for any time that resembles permanence. It is a grim but highly interesting picture, softened some by the romantic angle, but as a whole a depiction of the clash of forces of right and wrong, with right triumphing in the finale.

It is a well-acted photoplay, too, with the leading roles strongly played by George Bancroft, Evelyn Brent and Clive Brook.

Georgette Promises Brooks To Meet Him on Steamer And Go to Italy

truth, better not to say that she was going away with Ernest Brooks and expected to marry him, later on, abroad. It would be better just to say she was going away, and let Ann think she meant marrying him right now.

She sat down at the table, and tried to write but could not. Tears came into her eyes. Angrily she brushed them away, crumpled note into a little ball, and again. But this time, too, allure. Yet she couldn't ut telling Ann some- ow was she to let her know.

CHAPTER XXIV.

A BATTERED-LOOKING copy of a last month's magazine lay upon the dresser.

Georgie remembered having brought it upstairs to read in bed only a few days before. She picked it up idly now. Because she could think of no way in which to break her news to Ann, and because she was nervous and upset, she tried to kill time in reading.

But the story she glanced at held her, and suddenly, with her own life and her own problems put aside, she lost herself in reading the story of an imaginary life.

It was the story of a girl who, because she loved a man and he was leaving her, had cut her hair short as a boy's, put on boy's clothes and followed him out to the East. It was adventurous and daring and it ended wonderfully enough.

Reading it gave Georgie courage. Why people did wild, crazy things all the time, and here she was, acting as if the end of the world were about to come because she was going away to Italy with a man who adored her!

She got up and flung the magazine in the corner. She went back to the table with a new determination. Sitting down she wrote Ann a short, almost flippant note that refused to take anything too seriously. What if Ann did pull a long face and sigh? Why that would be just Ann's way. She wouldn't ever be able to crop her hair short, put on a cap and follow a man to the ends of the world. She didn't understand those things.

Georgie argued in imagination with Ann, left her gasping and defeated, with round, incredulous eyes, and an opened mouth. It was disappointing afterwards to realize Ann wasn't even there! And feeling that she had been a little too callous, she ended her short note with a postscript:

"I love you, Ann. Please forgive me."

She enclosed it in an envelope and left it on the bureau. Well, everything was settled now. And it was late. Ann might be home soon. Before she did, it would be well to get out of the house, disappear, eat somewhere else.

Going down the stairs, carrying her grip, she wondered whether she ought to say goodby to Mrs. O'Leary. But how could he? How could she say goodby without explaining? Besides it wasn't as if she weren't coming back. Why, in just a few months she'd be back as Mrs. Ernest Brooks. It would be winter, and she'd have a lovely fur coat.

"Why Georgie Hatings!" Mrs. O'Leary would exclaim.

She would shake her head and smile. "I'm Mrs. Brooks now, you know." That would be the answer. And Ann would look at her with wide, grave eyes. She would say in a low voice: "You were right, Georgie. How foolish I was to try to advise you about anything!"

But at that moment Georgie heard the footsteps of a real Mrs. O'Leary, crossing from the kitchen to the dining room. With a guilty feeling that was not entirely unpleasant, she shrank back against the banisters, holding her breath.

Mrs. O'Leary picked up a glass, retraced her steps. The swinging door of the kitchen closed with a swoosh of air.

Georgie stole cautiously ahead, opened the front door. Col. Montgomery was just arriving, jauntily carrying his cane with the air of a man who had conquered life instead of being conquered by it.

"Hello—going to the country?" he inquired.

"Oh, no," she laughed. "Nothing like that."

She went past him quickly, called to a cab that was going by. She was in it and out of sight of the boarding house in another minute.

How Col. Montgomery would talk afterwards—the last person to see her.

"And she said to me—she said to me—as cool as a cucumber, mind you!—'Oh, no, I'm not going into the country!' That's what she said, and in my opinion . . ."

Georgie gave a little shiver. Adventures—this was what adventures were really like. In the Sunday papers with their pictures of women who threw away their fortunes for pearl necklaces, who married strings of husbands, millionaires, marquises, gamblers, Oriental princes, you got the feeling that life could be varied and exciting and strange.

Well, she perhaps was going to live vividly like that from now on. She and Ernest—Ernest, the well-known artist, her husband!

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

MARGY CAN THIS HERE NOW PSYCHO-WOOZUS TELL ANYTHING ABOUT DREAMS?
YES, INDEED!
I HAD A BEAUTIFUL DREAM LAST NIGHT!
WHAT WAS IT ALL ABOUT?
THAT'S THE TROUBLE, I CAN'T REMEMBER!
NOT REMEMBERING YOUR DREAM, MEANS SOMETHING TERRIBLE!
OH! MARGY!

"My dear, I'm so MAD I could GARgle BUTtermilk at this point—I ACtually AM, because that perVERted little PIPsqueak ARab SIMply SLAYS me, no less! I mean WHAT do you s'POSE he told me the other DAY, my dear? well, he ASKED me if this PSYchoanALysis could tell you anything about your DREAMS, and of COURSE, my dear, one of the most inTRIguing things aBOUT it is that it sort of inTERprets DREAMS, because when you have odd DREAMS they are to SUBlimate your deSIRES or something, do you know what I mean? So I was HONestly all-of-a-DOOdah when he said he had had this b'YUtiful DREAM and wanted me to inTERpret it for him. I was ACtually all aGOG because some of the most INnocent DREAMS, my dear, are simply AWful when you inTERpret them and I was simply DYing to hear about this DREAM ARab had had because prob'ly it appeared very INnocent and b'YUtiful to him, my dear when it was REALly SUBlimating some kind of riSQUE desire or something, do you know what I mean? So I could hardly WAIT for him to conFIDE this DREAM to me, my dear, but when I ASKED him to tell me what it WAS, he'd comPLETEly forGOTten it—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean I think anybody as DUMB as THAT ought to take one of these odd MEMory course effects before they asPIRE to studying about PSYchoanALysis, my dear—I ACtually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Harrison's Escapade as "The Masked Dancer" Again Comes to the Fore.

AT LILLIAN'S query as to why I had given her the "high sign" when I had asked to delay until the dinner hour my story of the odd tenants at The Larches, I, too, gave a cautious glance at the chauffeur standing at attention outside the car during his master's absence in the drug store, and made certain that he could not hear me.

"Because I had one of my 'hunches,'" I whispered, "that our host is much more interested in the story than he pretends to be, and I wanted to be very sure that I had all the details in order before I related them."

"I thought it was something like that," Lillian replied. "Well! I'll back one of your hunches any day. But isn't this like Phil Veritzen to order our dinner served in an hour without ever asking us about any preference as to food? But that's his pet stunt when he's giving a dinner. He knows a good deal about my favorite dishes—I used to go around with him quite a bit—and I'll warrant he's found out a few things about yours."

I nodded, flushing as I remembered the luncheons to which Mr. Veritzen, upon the pretext of continuing office discussions, used to invite me, always being careful that some other member of his staff shared our table. Looking back upon those luncheons I could see that Mr. Veritzen by adroit questioning indeed had "found out a few things" about my gastronomic preferences.

"And you'll find he has forgotten no detail when that dinner is served," Lillian commented. "But tell me quickly, before he comes back, is Noel still staying down near you at Ticer's?"

"Yes, he is there, when he isn't decorating our front veranda, talking to Mary," I answered with a smile, as I thought of young Noel Veritzen's devotion to Dicky's niece.

"Still as infatuated as ever, I suppose," Lillian commented. "You know that's going to be a complication when Mary goes back to his father's training. You know Phil Veritzen's commandment: 'Thou shalt have no distractions from my rigid rules.'"

"I don't believe Mary will ever go back to his training," I said quietly.

"She isn't quitting!" Lillian sat erect, her face horrified.

"No," I answered coldly, for the memory of Lillian's reluctance to bring her daughter to our home because of Mary's presence there still rankled. "But she has made up her mind to tell Mr. Veritzen everything concerning her escapade as the masked dancer."

Lillian's face lighted with sudden spontaneous admiration.

"Why! the plucky little thing!" she exclaimed. "I didn't know she had it in her! She didn't need to do it either. There isn't a chance in a thousand that Phil ever would discover it. Jack Leslie's blabbing would be the only thing she'd ever have to fear, and I think Hugh Grantland put the fear of God into him that night so thoroughly that he would never dare to voice whatever knowledge he had."

"I've been most unjust to Mary," she said, her voice holding the pain which is always here when she has misjudged someone. "I must talk this over with you—but here comes Phil out of the drug store door now. This will have to be continued in our next."

COOLIDGE GIVES CONGRESS FLOOD CONTROL PLAN

10-YEAR PLAN TO COST NATION $296,400,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—President Coolidge today submitted to Congress the Army engineers 10-year $296,400,000 plans for Mississippi flood control and suggested "that appropriate legislation be enacted putting them into effect."

As summarized by the engineers' report, the plans include "a spillway above New Orleans, diversion floodways in the Atchafalaya and Tensas basins, a river bank floodway from Cairo, Ill., to Madrid, Mo., together with strengthening and a moderate raising of existing levees."

The President said "States and other local authorities should supply all land and assume all pecuniary responsibility for damages that may result from the execution of the project."

STATES TO PAY 20 PER CENT

In addition the states would pay for 20 per cent of the flood control works costing $185,400,000, while the Federal government would pay 80 per cent of those costs and all of the $111,000,000 charge for channel stabilization and mapping.

"The control of Mississippi floods by reservoirs is shown to be too costly to warrant their construction," the chief of engineers' report said. "Other suggested schemes, including levees of sufficient height to contain the maximum possible flood, are discussed but found inadvisable. The recommended plan fundamentally differs from the present project in that it limits the amount of flood water carried in the main river to its safe capacity and sends the surplus water through lateral floodways."

The President's letter pointed out that the large expenditure involved "is manfestly justified by the necessities of the situation and the benefits that will result," and that it entails local expenditure of only 20 cents a year for 10 years per acre on land and improvements valued at $200 an acre.

While the rejected plan is expected to provide safety for 29,550 square miles against any future flood at a cost of $296,400,000, an accompanying letter from Secretary of War Davis said the last flood cost more than $200,000,000 in property damage beside killing almost 200 persons and rendering 700,000 temporarily homeless.

Hunter Bags His Quota of Deer With Auto

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 8.—George Shingledecker, local game authority, bagged his season's quota of venison in an unusual way yesterday. While on his way to the forest to hunt for deer, his machine struck a large buck, killing the animal and damaging the machine. Until today, Shingledecker has been numbered among the unsuccessful hunters of the season.

KITTANNING, Pa., Dec. 8.—Andrew Rush, 78, of Templeton, killed a five-point deer at Medix Run.

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Rev. Olin C. Joner, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, bagged a deer weighing 125 pounds near Clarion.

MAGOON ESTATE $99,480

The estate of the late George A. Magoon, of Pittsburgh, has an appraised value of $99,480.97 according to the inventory of the personal estate filed in the register of wills office. Of this amount $66,500 is in shares of the Simpson Creek Coal Company and the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and 157 shares of the Pittsburgh Gage and Supply Company.

OGDEN MILLS NAMED RED CROSS TREASURER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Ogden L. Mills, under secretary of the treasury, will succeed Charles E. Dewey as treasurer of the American Red Cross, Dewey having accepted a post as financial advisor for the Polish government. Mills was named yesterday by the Central Committee. Officers re-elected were Robert W. DeForest, of New York, and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, vice presidents; William D. Mitchell, counselor, and Mabel T. Boardman, secretary.

They Come Back! Church Pushes Movies Out

By Universal Service.

LITCHFIELD, Conn., Dec. 8.—The people of Litchfield prefer the old-time religion to the new fangled movies.

The Colony Picture Theater has been sold for a church. Before being taken over by the movies it was a church.

It has been the only theater in town.

CONGREGATION SPLIT 30 YEARS AGO TO REUNITE

CUMBERLAND, Md., Dec. 8.—Split by dissension 30 years ago, the congregations of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and St. Stephen's Lutheran Church have voted to reunite. Worship will be held in the former church while St. Stephen's will be used for adult Sunday school classes. The two churches are a block apart. The Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's, will be pastor of the combined congregations.

STATE ROAD PATROL INSPECTED IN ERIE

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 8.—State highway patrol units in Northwestern Pennsylvania were inspected in Erie yesterday, under direction of Lieut. W. B. Smoot, commandant of this section. Among state officers at the review were Capt. W. C. Price, Capt. P. J. Doerr, adjutant, and W. W. Matthews, chief of the state bureau of safety.

DIVORCES SON OF CAMP

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Mrs. Walter Camp, Jr., wife of the famous football mentor's son, was granted a divorce and custody of their son, Walter III, in Superior Court here yesterday. Under stipulation, Mrs. Camp withdrew her plea for alimony.

Mrs. Camp, in her petition, charged that her husband deserted her on the eve of their tenth wedding anniversary. They were married on October 14, 1914.

Camp, who did not appear at the hearing, agreed through his counsel, to pay $200 a month to Mrs. Camp as trustee for the boy. She was Frances English of this city before her marriage.

The McKeesport Junkers will make their first appearance of the season in Pittsburgh tonight when they meet the Sumer Somerman Club in a P. & O. League contest on the Columbus Temple floor.

The Junkers have played only one game in the P. & O. League so far this season, scoring an impressive victory over the B. L. Succops of the South Side.

The Somermans regard the Junkers as one of the strongest contenders for the first-half championship of the league and will be out tonight eager to hand them their first reverse of the year.

A large crowd is expected to attend the game to see Hyman Labelle, former all-scholastic center at Fifth Avenue High, make his debut with the Somermans. Labelle is filling the shoes of Eddie Losman, who is playing for the Duquesne University varsity team.

THE Enoch Rauh Club, Allegheny County League member, may appear in a charity contest at Public Hall, Cleveland, according to reports. The Rauh management has been approached with an offer to send the team to the Forest City to meet one of Cleveland's outstanding floor machines in a contest next Saturday night.

The Rauhs did not make much of a showing in their opening game against Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, but they are bound to improve after they get a few battles under their belts. They have the material for one of the strongest independent clubs in their history.

DRIBBLES

Duquesne Light meets Kaufmann's and P. & L. E. meets Drave in the two C. & I. League games scheduled at the South Side Market House tonight.

The Goldensons will be out for revenge next Wednesday night when they meet St. Catherines in a P. & O. League game at the South Side Market House. St. Catherines defeated the Goldensons at Beechview in the opener.

The Barry Cardinals want games abroad with junior teams. Call Fisk 1050 and ask for Frank.

The McDermott Club of Homestead is open for games with junior teams. Write Edmund Bardell, 249 East Nineteenth avenue, Homestead, Pa.

The Swift Club would like to book games with boys' teams. Write Adam Malecki, 110 South Thirteenth street.

The Allentown Turners have bolstered their lineup considerably with the addition of Bill Roehn, former star of the Merry Little Five. The Turners meet the Harmony Club in a Metropolitan League battle tomorrow.

Games with midget teams are desired by the A. G. Roberts of the South Side. Call Hemlock 6118 after 7 o'clock.

Two attractive games are scheduled for the I. K. S. tomorrow, the Midgets engaging the Allentown Turners abroad and the Boys clashing with the McKeesport Club at home.

First U. P. Community House will be out to make it two straight in its game tonight with Peoples Savings and Trust Company. Coach Weber has had the North Siders practicing hard for this game, realizing that the bankers have a mighty good team and one that may upset the dope.

CHAPMAN, CROWLEY BOUT IN MAKING

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

PAULINO UZCUDUN, the Basque wood-chopper and heavyweight contender, will make his Pittsburgh debut on New Year's Monday afternoon in the Motor Square Garden ring, Johnny Ray, matchmaker at Motor Square Garden, today admitted he had closed for the services of the colorful European and now is scouting for an opponent. It is likely Soldier Jones, the Canadian heavyweight, who almost knocked out Harry Greb in the Motor Square ring several years ago and has fought all of the other topnotchers, including Gene Tunney, the present heavyweight champion, will get the assignment.

Announcement was made in New York last night that Paulino would go on tour to re-establish his prestige, which suffered a slump as the result of a defeat by Johnny Risko recently. He will open in Philadelphia, Christmas Monday afternoon, and come here just one week later. George Godfrey, the Negro challenger, may be his opponent at the Arena in Philadelphia. Cleveland and Detroit are to be among the other cities on the itinerary.

Ray also admitted a report from Boston that he had about closed to have Red Chapman, the former Homestead boy and Pittsburgh downtown newsie, who now makes his home in the Hub and is one of the leading featherweights in the game, meet Tommy Crowley in the Motor Square ring a week from next Monday.

Such a program of shows should do much to increase interest in the sport hereabouts and improve the size of the crowds in the Motor Square arena.

ZIVIC BOUT TESTS DOPE

If Jack Zivic can defeat Willie Harmon when they clash in the 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night it will prove conclusively that comparative records in boxing, as in football and other sports, do not mean a thing.

Zivic recently was decisively outpointed by Young Saylor of Charleroi in the Motor Square ring, and then Harmon came along, two weeks later, and handed Saylor the only defeat of the latter's career, and a most thorough one, Saylor's seconds being forced to throw in the towel after five rounds of body smashing coupled with a cut left eye.

Harmon and Zivic have met twice. Zivic won the first bout, a 12-rounder, in 1925, and the second, over the 10-round route, resulted in a draw, so that, on form, Saylor, the victor over Zivic, should have beaten Harmon. But he didn't, and it's a question now whether or not Zivic still holds his edge over Harmon, one of the most popular Eastern boxers to appear before the local fans.

KENNEDY REINSTATED

Eddie Kennedy, local referee, was reinstated at a meeting of the State Athletic Commission in Philadelphia yesterday. He had been set down for his fracas with Jim Jennings, manager of Teddy Esterbrook, following the latter's bout with Young Saylor at Motor Square Garden recently. Jennings' suspension stands, but the lid was lifted from his stable of boxers. The commission suspended Marty McHale of McKeesport indefinitely for unsatisfactory work in recent bouts. Battling Levinsky, who was unable to go through with his bout with Emmett Rocco here last Monday night, was ordered to box for the Motor Square Club before appearing in any other bouts.

Benny Bass and Johnny Farr box the main bout at Detroit tomorrow night. Pete Zivic meets Ward Sparks. Archie Bell boxes Bill Shaw and Sammy Dorfman battles Eddie Anderson in other 10-rounders on the bill, and Luis Carpentero, the Filipino flyweight, who boxed Willie Davies at McKeesport last week, engages Joey Ross of Jersey City in the six-round opening bout.

Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus boxes Jacinto Valdez of Youngstown in the main bout at Columbus tomorrow night.

The card has been concluded for Monday night's show at Motor Square Garden. In addition to the 10-round main bout between Jack Zivic and Willie Harmon, there will be an eight-round semi-final between those two keen rivals, Young Rudy of Charleroi and Teddy Welch of McKeesport, and two six-round bouts. U. S. Carpentier of New Kensington meets Johnny Michaels of Jamestown, N. Y., in the second scrap and the opener will be between Johnny Vivio of Bloomfield and Jimmy Belmont of Braddock.

DUNDEE PASSES THROUGH

Joe Dundee, the welterweight champion, and his manager, Max Waxman, passed through Pittsburgh early this morning en route to Indianapolis, where the titleholder boxes Myer Grace tomorrow night.

Homer Robertson, former local middleweight, now fighting out of Boston, has been promised a meeting with Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, at Chicago in January if he beats Osk Till in the semi-final to the Paul Berlenbach-Jack Delaney bout at Chicago tomorrow night.

K. O. Warren, football star of the University of North Carolina, has signed a contract to box professionally under the management of Jimmy Bronson of New York. He is the national amateur junior heavyweight champion. His professional debut will be made against Lou Carpenter in a 10-round bout at Durham, N. C., next Tuesday night.

SPORT LENS

cut fellow who takes care of himself.

SOME of the boys here think Slattery made a bad deal when he preferred New York as a battle site instead of Pennsylvania. A hard coal promoter offered Slattery $17,000 to meet Loughran, which he spurned. He now goes into New York taking 12½ per cent of the gate. The Loughran-McTigue bout in New York drew in round figures $80,000. It is not expected that the Slattery-Loughran will do as well. Consequently, it can be seen that Slattery would have made more with his $17,000 guarantee in Pennsylvania.

IT IS worth noting, too, that in the hard coal regions where there is no city as large as Pittsburgh, there is a promoter willing to take such a chance. One reason for this is that the soft coal strike is gravy on the vests of the hard coal miners who are prospering.

Then, too, the hard coal region is a hot nest of fight fans, who take boxing as their chief amusement, because there is no big league baseball there and no big league football. It was in the same region where a promoter staged the welterweight championship bout between Walker and Latzo, and in the face of a big "nut" (expense) made about $10,000.

MAX WAXMAN, who manages Joe Dundee, offered his version of the Dundee-Hudkins fiasco in California. You remember that the fight was called off after the customers had paid admissions and were waiting for things to happen. They almost wrecked the place when the bout fell through. Waxman refused to allow Dundee to go through with the bout, when, according to his story, there was only about $30,000 in sight when his guarantee called for $65,000.

Waxman is having difficult times as manager of a champion. A man who twice has been slashed, it is not uncommon for him to walk around armed with a couple of detectives to protect him.

WAXMAN, in trouble now, will get into greater difficulties if he does not desist from the practice of bothering too much about referees. He is slated to take Dundee o Indianapolis tomorrow night and he contemplates taking a personally conducted referee with him. This is not so good. In view of his trouble in several states it behooves Waxman to get away from that old-time idea that a champion should carry a referee around with him.

Waxman says this is done just to get an even break, but cynical minded fans might suspect that it is done to get the best of it, as the boys say. Dundee is to box Joe Simmonich in Wilkes-Barre, December 13, but Waxman will not bother about a referee. In fact, he says he never worries about referees in this state. However, he should not worry about them any place he goes. Where he is skeptical he should decline to accept matches. He is manager of a champion who has made but very little money since he dethroned Pete Latzo last summer.

IS THERE a heavyweight of the second flight who can stay a respectable length of time with George Godfrey, the colored giant, who mows down every opponent of late within a round or so? Godfrey seems willing to meet anyone. He is worth seeing just for his size. He weighs "only" 235 pounds and stands above six feet. Johnny Ray thinks Soldier Jones, who almost flattened Greb, could stay the limit.

CHICAGO-MICHIGAN SIGN FIVE-YEAR PACT

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—The existence of a contract specifying a five-game football series, starting in 1930, between the Big Ten universities of Michigan and Chicago was acknowledged today by Athletic Director A. A. Stagg, of Chicago.

Stagg said the pact, which calls for a resumption of gridiron hostilities with the Wolverines, was formally agreed upon during the Big Ten meeting of coaches and directors here last week and was closed by the two universities last Tuesday.

The first of the five-game series will be played at Ann Arbor in 1930, Stagg said.

OLDTIMERS

line to shreds. Not once was a hook thrown for a loss, the interferers neatly turning aside such stray snowflakes as blocked their paths.

A remark that his famous furies might be handicapped by grid fright when they appear before such a large crowd as threatens to attend the fray Saturday (the admission is to be free) moved Coach Bowser to submit for publication a list of the talent present or accounted for. His list includes such famous ones as Tommy Davies, Tiny Hewitt, Andy Hastings, Tommy Holleran, Zonar Wissinger, Horse Chase, Tiny Linn, Jack Sack, Milo Gwosden, Pie Williams, Lloyd Jordan, Tuffy McMillin, Red Byers, Charley Bowser and others who are expected to sign contracts soon.

The game is expected to keep the Panthers in top form for their Tournament of Roses game with Stanford at Pasadena, January 2. Oldtimers are confident that this aim will be realized and that the varsity will be shorn of any overconfidence.

The Pitt Special, made up of two Pullmans and a baggage car, will leave Pittsburgh on the evening of December 26 and will arrive at Los Angeles on the morning of December 31, according to tentative plans for the trip announced by Pitt officials today. The tedium of the journey is to be broken by stops at Dodge City, Kan., Albuquerque, N. M., and Ash Fork, Ariz. The halts at Dodge City and Ash Fork will be of about two hours' duration and one day is to be spent in Albuquerque.

The officials who are to handle the game will be announced by Pop Warner, Stanford coach. Coach Jack Sutherland, of the Panthers, has mailed Warner a list of officials acceptable to him, and Pop will choose from this list.

SPORT COMMENT

Second Baseman Carey Selph and Shortstop Louis Benson from the Syracuse club of the International League.

The ridiculous feature of the announcement is contained in the fact that both the Syracuse and Houston clubs are owned by the St. Louis National League club and the "purchase" amounts to nothing more than the transferring of two players by the Cardinal bosses from one park to another.

EVEN the fair fans of the city are joining in the criticism of the balloting wherein Pie Traynor received only 18 votes against the totals ranging from 72 downward given to others in the "most valuable player" bunk. Miss Margaret M. Hamill of the North Side writes:

"Thank goodness, someone besides our family feels that Pie Traynor needs a press agent. Not to detract from the honor given to Paul Waner, but when it comes right down to actual value, where is there another ball player in either major league to compare with Pie? He stands out beyond all others.

"AT Forbes Field one day I heard a man say after he had seen Pie make an almost impossible play: 'Well, there are a lot of third baseman, but there is only one Traynor.'

"That is just how I feel and I was glad to see that a few of you sport writers put your thoughts in print.

"We should like to have some more boosting for Pie, and hope that when next summer rolls around we shall have a Traynor day and show Pie that many fans think he is one of the most valuable players in the country, even though a small committee votes otherwise.

"I wish to add a few words wishing Kiki Cuyler good luck in his new environment."

GOLF training is coming in handy even for hockey players, it seems.

In a recent game in which Ottawa defeated Boston, 2 to 1, one of the goals that gave the Senators a victory was made on a golf shot by Frank Nighbor, veteran center of the Ottawa team.

Frank fell on his knees and saw the puck on edge in nice position to be nudged with a stroke akin to the mashie pitch in golf. Accordingly, he employed one of the tricks or shots he had learned on the links, and shot the goal. He declares that but for his golf experience he could not have made the shot.

Nighbor's golf instructor at the Pembroke Club, north of Ottawa, was Dave Hood, originally of Edinburgh, who has played and taught golf three-quarters of the way around the world, and who, while in Japan, was instructor to the present emperor, then the crown prince.

Football Officials Elect Officers For 1928

The Pittsburgh chapter of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association dined and grape-juiced at the P. A. A. last night and held its annual election of officers and delegates. The affair was well attended.

Retiring president of the organization, Daniel B. Dougherty acted as toastmaster. Dougherty was succeeded as president by John P. Egan. Dexter W. Very was elected vice president and Calvin Bolster, secretary-treasurer.

Delegates to the Intercollegiate Association meeting will be Rogers M. (Buck) Baird, Daniel B. Dougherty and John P. Egan. These men were elected last night, with Henry Blum as alternate.

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1927

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

IT IS going to cost Pitt a pretty penny to make the long trip to California for the Tournament of Roses football game at Pasadena on January 2.

Taking a gridiron squad on a journey across the continent is rather an expensive proposition, and the cost of the big jump to meet Pop Warner's Stanford stars will knock quite a hole in the Panther athletic fund until the profit is raked in.

WHILE the exact cost of the trip to the Pacific coast and back has not yet been figured out, it is estimated conservatively that the expense will not be less than $400 per person.

As there are to be 24 players in the party, and, in addition, coaches, trainer, Pitt athletic council officials and others in such numbers as to boost the total to 36, it will be seen that at the estimated rate the total financial outlay required for the round trip will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $14,400.

Perhaps it will be a little more, perhaps a little less, but in any event, the expenditures for railroad fare, Pullman berths, meals, hotel, etc., will run well into five figures.

HOWEVER, the high cost of making the jump will be a profitable one for the financial branch of Pitt's athletics, as the Panther football chiefs will have a handsome balance to bring home with them.

The locals will receive at least $50,000 for meeting Stanford in the feature game, so that there will be a net profit approximating $35,000 to be applied to the stadium fund.

Apart from the monetary end of it, the selection of Pitt to meet Stanford in the big annual classic in Pasadena adds not a little to the prestige of the local university and means quite a bit of advertising for Father Pitt and his great city.

HERE'S another gem to be added to the hokum coming out of Dallas during the convention of the minor baseball leagues, which winds up today:

In all seriousness, it is announced that the Houston club of the Texas League has "purchased outright"

Oldtimers Drill for Panthers

By CARL W. SHATTO

"IF THE Panthers think we're going to be any setup, they're in for a rude shock. This club of mine can beat any team in the country."

So spake Charley Bowser, assistant coach at Pitt and head coach of the Oldtimers, as he put his Pitt stars of yesteryear through their paces at the Pitt Stadium this afternoon.

With former all-America luminaries in the line and in the backfield, Bowser decided that his boys should have a fair idea of grid fundamentals and decreed that practice should be devoted entirely to the business of cooking up plays and becoming so acquainted with them that they could run them off without the aid of a chart and compass.

Yes, the huddle will be used. Because practice, started today, ends tomorrow, the Old Grads hardly will be able to memorize a set of numbers for every play, and they realize that one slip-up may cost them the national title. Moreover, the "in conference" system will come in handy when the ancient ones need a breathing spell.

OLDTIMERS SHOW CLASS

Judging from the showing the Oldtimers made today they are going to be hard to stop. They ran through thin and somewhat frigid air with gusto and hammered an imaginary

PANTHERS SCHEDULE STRONG FIVES

By JESS CARVER.

ANOTHER champion athletic team is in the making out at Pitt. While the varsity football team, recognized as the local and Eastern gridiron champ, is drilling on the Stadium field for the game with Stanford on the coast New Year's Day and for the practice contest scheduled with the Alumni at the Stadium on Saturday, the fair-haired Dr. H. C. Carlson, variously known as Red, Cravat, Doc or what have you, is working with as sweet a looking squad of basketball players as a college coach could wish.

The Pitt schedule for this 1927-28 season almost demands a good team. There isn't a soft spot on the card, tough games being arranged for the Panthers to play from beginning to end, from December 15, when Michigan is engaged at Ann Arbor until March 10, when Penn State rings down the Pitt curtain at State College.

In addition to playing all of its local rivals and Big Four members, the Pitt quint will face Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Army and Colgate away from home and Ohio State, Dartmouth, Syracuse and Notre Dame here in Pittsburgh. The schedule is certainly a representative one, and seven or eight victories out of the 18 important games will place Pitt high in national standing.

Dr. Carlson finds a squad composed of four veterans from last year's fine team, and a raft of all-star sophomore material, headed by the clever Cohen and Steaks Hyatt, stars of last year's freshman team, undefeated in some

Bill Amos Denies Signing With Canucks

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Bill Amos, Wash-Jeff fullback, denied emphatically that he had signed as a catcher for the Montreal club of the International League yesterday.

The story given out by the Montreal club Tuesday caused consternation here inasmuch as Amos is both a basketball and track contender and in his final year at the institution is expected to greatly aid both departments. His signing of an organized league baseball contract would also have barred him automatically from making the trip to San Francisco with Andy Kerr's all-Eastern team.

REAL "ALL-AMERICANS"

The Pitt Panthers will have a real "all-America" basketball team this season, judging from the array of stars in this layout of pictures snapped during yesterday's practice session in the stadium gymnasium. Stanley Wrobleski of Braddock is Polish, Lester Cohen is Jewish and Charley Hyatt traces his American ancestry far back. Hyatt and Cohen were stars of Coach Everhart's crack Uniontown High School team of two seasons ago and were members of the Panther freshmen outfit last season. Wrobleski is a varsity veteran. Hyatt was named an all-America scholastic player as a result of his brilliant work in the national scholastic tournament at Chicago at the end of the 1924-25 season. Pitt opens its floor season one week from tonight against Michigan at Ann Arbor. Chicago, Northwestern and Iowa also will be played on the trip into the Middle West. The home campaign gets under way with a game with Dartmouth on the night of December 23.

BRADLEY VETOES EVANS' DEAL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Alva Bradley, president of the Cleveland American League Baseball Club, announced today that Arthur Fletcher, coach of the New York Yankees, had not been appointed manager of the Cleveland Indians. Reports from Dallas were that Billy Evans, general manager of the Indians, had announced appointment of Fletcher.

"If Evans has decided on Fletcher or made such an announcement he would have told me about it," Bradley said. "The only word I have received from him was a telegram yesterday saying no real action had been taken, but that he had made some progress on player trades. However, nothing definite could be done because no one is in Dallas who has final say."

Bradley admitted that Fletcher was under consideration, but added, "we have three or four others also in mind for the job."

Evans was reported today in St. Louis, where he was scheduled to confer with Fletcher at his home in Collinsville, a St. Louis suburb. Bradley said Evans was in St. Louis only to confer with Phil Ball, president of the Browns, about some player trades.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—Boxing circles here are contemplating the bout Monday night in New York between Tommy Loughran, light-heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Slattery, challenger. Loughran lives here; Slattery comes from Buffalo. The bout will settle a slight dispute between two boxing groups, one of which said Loughran is the champion, with the other holding that Slattery is just as much a champion as Loughran. The argument will be settled next Monday night. Slattery has wasted much of his talent by careless training methods and a lax mode of life. He is still young, as topliners go. ## "The LONG COUNT" by Jack Dempsey

Former Heavyweight Champion's Own Story of His Near-knockout Victory in Return Bout with Gene Tunney.

CHAPTER IV.

IN ALL the years I have been part of the ring game, I've never been given a worse deal throughout than was accorded to me by Dave Barry, the referee in Chicago.

The world knows that Barry accorded Tunney a long count and thus probably saved Tunney his title as champion of the world. But other things happened during that fight which were helpful to Tunney—with Barry as the helper—which the public did not see or actually understand.

All through that fight, Barry kept hissing warnings at me, almost always without provocation. Almost every time I landed a body blow, no matter if it was six inches above the belt, or 12 or 18 inches, Barry would get close to me and snarl:

"Keep your punches up or I'll disqualify you."

On several occasions in which Tunney and I got in close and I attempted to put my head against his chest so that I could whale away against his body, Barry promptly would break us, although we were not in a clinch and generally would warn me:

"Stop butting, or I'll disqualify you."

During the fight, I cuffed Tunney on the back of the head. Barry classified that as a "rabbit punch" and constantly warned me that he'd disqualify me if I didn't stop using that punch.

DENIES USING RABBIT PUNCH

The blows I landed on Tunney's neck and the back of his head, were NOT "rabbit punches." They merely were cuffing blows dealt with the flat part of the fist (that is the part in the region of the thumb and the clenched index finger).

For Barry's benefit—and also for Tunney's, who speaks of my use of the "rabbitp unch"—I'd like to explain what is a "rabbit punch" and why it is so called.

In the "rabbit" industry the animals are killed by men who stick their fingers straight out, make the hand rigid and then chop down on the neck of a rabbit, using the hand as a hatchet is used. The part they strike with is the BOTTOM of the hand—meaning the part that extends from the tip of the little finger in a straight line to the wrist.

A real "rabbit punch," therefore, is a blow delivered with a DOWNWARD CHOPPING STROKE, and with the bottom of the hand—or fist—as the striking weapon.

My blows to Tunney's neck were cuffing punches, delivered with the inside of my fist—the thumb and index finger region. They were NOT "RABBIT PUNCHES" and it was only Barry's misunderstanding as to the difference between CUFFING and CHOPPING punches that

SCHENLEY GRID FETE TONIGHT

Five football luminaries who have won their way to heights of glory during the past season will be the guests of honor at the Schenley High School football banquet tonight. Gibby Welch, all-American choice by every sports writer of note and captain of the championship Pitt team, will be the main speaker as well as chief honor guest. He will have with him for moral support his running mate, Whitey Hagan. Howard Harpster and John English, of Tech, will be two more of the local athletes who will be guests. And then Rei Cook, sterling backfield man of the W. & J. squad, will make the fifth grid luminary to sit at the festive board.

Ossie Adams, captain of the Schenley team two years ago and now attending W. & J., has been secured as toastmaster.

The banquet is being sponsored by the Hi-Y Club of Schenley, which includes in its membership a number of the players. Ochs, Getting, Smith, Schauer, Hartung and West all are members of the club.

SPEAKING of SPORTS by HARRY KECK SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

GEORGE GEMAS, the Philadelphia heavyweight, who took a bad beating from Emmett Rocco of Ellwood City for four rounds and then pulled a remarkable rally in the fifth session and had Rocco in worse shape than himself when his own chief second foolishly tossed in a towel and caused him to lose by a technical knockout at Motor Square Garden Monday night, didn't think so much of his "comeback."

I spoke with both Gemas and Rocco in the dressing quarters immediately after the bout. Gemas was telling me a bit of his history. He hails originally from Connellsville. His father was Polish and his mother German, so that he is neither a Greek nor a Welshman, as was argued at the ringside during the progress of the bout.

"I LEFT Connellsville about five years ago," Gemas said, "and joined the Navy. There I won the all-Navy heavyweight championship and most of my fights ended in knockouts. I took some bad beatings before winning many of those battles, but generally managed to outlast the other fellow and then win in a punch. In fact, I was almost slaughtered by some of my opponents before they tired and were knocked out, and I was coming from behind the same way tonight when the bout suddenly ended."

GEMAS was chagrined over the thought that his money might be held up.

"I gave 'em the best I had," he said, "and everybody will agree I finally was on my way to victory when the fighting was stopped by the towel."

It was suggested that no one blamed Gemas for the untimely ending, but that his second, who threw in the towel, certainly had acted in a rattle-brained manner, and Gemas was told the second. Young Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, the former lightweight boxer, and brother of the original Philadelphia Jack, was to be set down indefinitely as a second.

"Gee, I hope that isn't so," Gemas said. "Say, I've got a wife waiting back home for me to return with the dough from this fight, but O'Brien has a wife and four kids and needs the money he makes out of the fight racket more than I need mine. I'm the one that suffers most from his mistake, but I'm willing to overlook it, and I hope his act isn't held against him by the commission."

GEMAS took the fight here on a little more than two days' notice. It was not certain until noon Saturday that Battling Levinsky would be unable to meet Rocco because of a bad left eye. Gemas was told at 3 p. m. Saturday he was to substitute and he caught a train out of Philadelphia that night and arrived

YANKS OUTDRAWN

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Chicago Cubs baseball team drew a high record home crowd of 1,190,000 during the 1927 season, the secretary reported at the club's annual meeting last night. The mark eclipsed even that of the New York Yankees. The Cub's official family was happy and prosperous as a result yesterday.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

THE school of hard knocks is a great educator. The father of Tom Parkinson, Panther star, can qualify as instructor in this universal institution. And some day, Big Tom, after he achieves his degree as well as fame on the grid will visualize the dark recesses of a coal mine, shudder a bit and say to himself:

"Well, Tom—you gotta hand it to dad—he knew his pyschology."

Tom's pap, a sturdy Englishman, has been a coal miner for 40 years. Denied the advantages of a college education, the father, with honest pride, wanted his sons to go to college. But you know how boys are.

While in high school Tom decided to forsake his studies and go to work in the mines. His dad was mine boss. Instead of arguing against the move, the father gave up his bossing job and went to work in the same mine as the son. After digging coal for several months, Tom decided that school was a pretty fair place, after all—and he went back. His dad went through this ordeal to make his boy appreciate school.

Tubers Must Split Squad

By JULIUS LEVIN

REALIZING that the McKeesport Cyclers, composed entirely of former members of the Pittsburgh Morrys, would make the Allegheny County League race a one-team affair, five members of the circuit voted to eliminate the Tube City quintet at a meeting held in Kaufmann's last night.

The five managers were unanimous in their opinion that the Cyclers with their present lineup are entirely too strong to compete in the Allegheny County League, and, after suggesting that the McKeesport management permit two of its stars, Moon Klinsing and Yans Wallace, to play for Broadway, a proposition which was rejected by Francis (Lefty) Saunders, the Cyclers' manager, it was voted to eliminate that team as a member of the league.

As a result of the action last night, the league will start the race with the Enoch Rauh Club, Duquesne Lafayettes, Braddock American Legion Goose Goslin Club and McKees Rocks Business Men as members, with a possibility of three more teams of equal strength being added to the franchise holders to make the circuit an eight-club organization.

The Cyclers, in the meantime, likely will play an independent schedule, calling for games with the leading clubs in the American Professional League as well as teams enrolled in the Allegheny County League.

score of games. The veterans, Capt. Sykes Reed, Stanley Wrobleskie, Walter Hoban and Paul Fisher, the latter pair members of the football squad, who will not be available until after the return of the gridders from the coast, are all fine players. Reed is the best guard in the district. Wrobleskie played fine basketball at forward for Pitt last year. Fisher was a dependable guard and Hoban a first string and first-class reserve player last winter.

The Panthers lost three crack players through graduation. They were Capt. Elmer Lissfelt, George Kowallis and Bill Rihanek. Rihanek, the six foot two-inch center, will be hard to replace, and it is at this post that Pitt may find its only weakness.

Cohen looks to be the man to fill this position, with Hyatt and Wrobleskie at the forwards and Capt. Reed at one of the guards.

Zehfuss, Mango, Registerer and Edwards are the leading sophomore lights, all of whom will be potential first team men. In fact, Doctor Red is so well fixed for material that he will be able to use at least two different combinations—something he has always wanted to do.

Pitt apears to be the best team in the Big Four this year. Carnegie Tech, of course, with Harpster, White, Stauffer, Hartman and one or two others from last year's squad, will furnish strenuous and stubborn opposition, as will West Virginia, with a fairly veteran team. Wash-Jeff, playing a fairly light schedule, with no games out of the section and forced to build a team with cogs of the caliber of Carlin and Wild missing, will be somewhat of a dark horse.

The first home game will be played with Dartmouth furnishing the opposition in the Stadium Pavilion on December 23, and eight days later, New Years' Eve, Ohio State will be here. Syracuse is to be met on January 6 and then the Panthers will swing into action against tri-state teams, playing a Big Four game with Tech on January 14.

here the next day and worked out lightly in the Motor Square gym and then fought Monday night. Under the conditions he did very, very well.

ANOTHER boxer who acquitted himself with a great deal of credit Monday night was Kid Crutenfield, Negro pride of the Hill. Crutchy took on the highly-touted Marco Polo of McKees Rocks, who gained fame last summer as one of Jack Sharkey's sparring mates when the former gob was training for his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York, and there never was a time in the battle that the "Keed" was not forcing the issue, making Polo miss his well-intended right-handers for the chin and scoring effectively himself. Even a determined rally in the eighth and last round left Polo considerably short of evening up.

Although he's one of the local veterans, there's still many a good fight left in Crutchfield, and his manager, Billy Lewis, would like to match him against anybody at any weight. That goes for Rocco, Gemas, Sandy Seifert, Bob Lawson, Yale Okun and all the rest. Lewis says he'll guarantee to pack the Motor Square arena with Crutchfield's friends if the club will give the short, squat Negro who knows how to fight a chance in a main bout.

"The Long Count"

By JACK DEMPSEY

caused him to label every punch to the neck "a rabbit punch."

CITES COUNT ON SELF

Barry never gave me a square deal when he broke us from the clinches. If anyone doubts this, he can take a look at the moving pictures of the fight.

In the eighth round, when Tunney clipped me on the chin with a right hand punch, it was while Barry was breaking us. Before I could recover balance and get out of range, Tunney hit me on the chin with his left hand.

When I went down in the eighth, what did Barry do?

Did he chase Tunney to a neutral corner before he started a count as he had done in my case? The world knows he DID NOT!

It knows that even as I was flopping to the floor Barry, seemingly fearful that I might get the advantage of even so much as one extra second, fairly leaped to get over me and start the count.

Tunney was almost almost alongside him—and no more than an arm's length or so away from me. But Barry, who stalled his count over Tunney while he was escorting me around the corners, let Tunney stay where he was and raised his arm to count over me.

Was Barry in there to enforce one sort of rule upon me—and not to enforce it upon Tunney?

Early in the fight some persons in the Tunney corner set up a howl that my seconds were putting grease on my face. No such thing was happening. All Barry needed to do was to come over and take a good look at my face and reassure himself that it was not being greased. Barry should then have gone to Tunney's corner and ordered them to stop yelling at my corner.

But Barry came over to my corner, grabbed a towel and rubbed my face as though he were wiping off grease, even though there was no grease on it.

"I have not been offered a job as manager of the Cleveland club," he said. "In fact, I have had no communication from any of the Cleveland officials regarding my willingness to accept the job."

Fletcher, who was at his home at Collinsville, Ills., a suburb, said he was unaware that Billy Evans, newly-appointed general manager of the Cleveland club, had arrived in St. Louis today from Dallas for the express purpose, as reported in Cleveland dispatches, of meeting Fletcher and signing him to a contract as manager.

Evans could not be reached for a statement.

EVANS LANDS PILOT

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 8.—Art Fletcher, former New York Giant shortstop and for the past couple years coach of the New York Yankees, has been secured as manager of the Cleveland Indians for the 1928 season, it was announced here last night by Billy Evans, new vice president of the Cleveland club, just before he boarded a train for the North. Evans has been here since Sunday attending the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Evans' announcement came as a surprise, as it was not believed that the Cleveland club would make known its choice for the managerial berth until Evans had returned to Cleveland. He and Alva Bradley, new owner of the Indians, spent some time in the East previous to Evans' coming here, seeking a man for the job.

The trade market was slow yesterday. Thomas J. Hickey, American Association proxy, attributing this to inactivity of major league scouts in the ivory pit, and to reverses suffered by many clubs last year which have caused their owners to seek cash deals to help refill hungry coffers.

GROH TO MANAGE

Heinie Groh, former major league infielder, was named manager of the Charlotte club in the South Atlantic League. Gabby Street, former Senator receiver, who caught Walter Johnson's first major league pitch more than 20 years ago, is dickering with the Knoxville, Tenn., club with a view to piloting the outfit.

The unconditional release by the Toledo American Association club of three veteran baseball stars, Emil (Irish) Meusel, Everett Scott and Bullet Joe Bush, was also announced last night. Scott holds the world's record for playing in consecutive games.

Other deals included: Whitey Felber, Oklahoma City, Western League, outfielder, to Chattanooga of the Southern Association; Arthur Fraser, pitcher, Portland, Me., New England League, to Toronto International; William Englishman and Roy Curtain, infielders, Knoxville, Sally League, to Evansville, Three-I League. James Brillheart, south paw pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, will go to the Minneapolis Millers.

Jimmy Poole, brought from the West Coast to play first base for the Athletics last year, was purchased by Atlanta of the Southern Association.

Best Xmas Gift for Many; Abolish Seven-Day Work.

By B. C. FORBES

WHAT mockery all the present fashionable talk about prosperity must be to our brother mortals in this country who are still working seven days a week every week of the year, with never one day's leisure to look forward to! How ridiculous to them must be President Coolidge's recent warning against the evils lurking in bumper prosperity!

I was hopeful that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis would so forcefully and prominently urge the abolition of the 365-day work year in his annual report that every newspaper would publish extracts on the subject. But all he says is: "The 60-hour week is gone. The 72-hour week is confined to a very small percentage of workers, and the 84-hour week, which means 12-hour days seven days a week, is virtually abolished."

Will Congress be moved to take it up?

NO thoughtful person desires to see unnecessary governmental interference with business. It would be best all round if railroad and other executives still responsible for maintaining the seven-day week would voluntarily abolish it. But it has not been abolished.

Surely one of the very first duties of a civilized government is to do everything within its power to bring about civilized treatment of its wage-earning classes. Who will argue, at this day, that it is perfectly civilized to make men toil every week day, every Sunday, every holiday, every day of the year from January 1 to December 31? That is slavery rather than civilization.

Therefore, unless those guilty of practicing it undertake to abolish it, does it not become the clear duty of the rulers of the nation, our law makers, to step in and act most vigorously?

WE are beginning to hear a lot about a five-day work week. President Green has announced that the American Federation of Labor means to work towards its nation-wide adoption.

There well may be differences of opinion as to whether America has reached that stage of its economic development which makes such a plan entirely feasible. Perhaps because I have never been accustomed to anything less than a six-day week myself, and have never felt it to be a cruel hardship, I do not find myself animated by the same urge to enter the lists to fight tooth and nail for this reform just at present.

But I never can reflect upon the poor devils who work every day of the week and every day of the year and every year of their lives without feeling hotly indignant, without feeling ashamed of myself for not doing more than I have ever done to strive to the limit of my puny ability to arouse sentiment against so revolting so inhuman a state of affairs.

ONE railway telegrapher writes: "I have been working for the —— Railroad for 27 years. In all my service for them they have never given me one vacation, no day of rest and nothing to look forward to but the daily grind. It is pretty hard. There ought to be a law passed compelling the railroads to give the telegraph operators one day's rest a week. That's the way we get the eight-hour day.

"The responsibility that rests upon us is nerve-wracking. Little does the public know when they ride along in the splendid equipment of the railroads that their lives are being held in the operator's hand. Let the operator forget and give the wrong signal, set the wrong switch, and get two trains together, and they want to hang him. The engineer makes more money in 10 days than we make in a month."

ANOTHER bitter letter comes from a railwayman who "gets up every morning of the year, puts on a blue shirt, a pair of overalls and buckskin gloves and goes to work switching cars." He asks:

"The railroads are spending many millions for improvements, but how much is being spent on the men?

"We are still sleeping in the same old cabooses of 20 years ago. The past week 12 officers' cars have been in our city, and the fellows in them, I understand, had a good time playing golf—and we make it possible for them to do this at $35.96 per week, switching box cars. That old saying that life is a comedy for the boss and a tragedy for the worker sure is true."

WHAT a heartening Christmas present to many thousands of breadwinners, their wives and their children, if the railroads and other seven-day employers were to announce that, beginning with the new year, such treatment was to be abolished!

How about it?

DIVIDEND.

Pittsburgh, Pa., December 7, 1927.
THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY

The Board of Directors of this company has today declared a Christmas dividend of two per cent, amounting to $2.00 per share, on the capital stock of the company, payable to stockholders of record at the close of business December 17, 1927.

GEORGE V. McCUE, Treasurer.

STOCKS REACT DESPITE BULL EFFORTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The reaction in stock prices was continued today despite repeated efforts of operators for the advance to regain control of the price movement. Political uncertainties created by the definite withdrawal of President Coolidge, fears of higher interest rates aroused by the higher coupon on the new Treasury financing and the disappointing steel trade reports were the principal reasons assigned for the selling movement. "Bear" traders attacked a wide variety of issues, some of which declined sufficiently to dislodge weakened marginal accounts.

Raising of the annual dividend on Southern Railway common from $7 to $8 annually brought about a brisk covering movement around midday, but it soon petered out. Banks called about $5,000,000 in loans, but call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 4 per cent. Publication of the final government crop estimate of 12,792,000 bales, a decrease of about 53,000 bales below the preceding month, was about in line with the trade's expectations. An early advance of about $1 a bale in cotton futures was not maintained.

Southern Railway common, which sold below $25 a share in 1923, soared to a new high record around $149 a share following the announcement of the higher dividend. Weakness cropped out, however, in several other rails, Louisville and Nashville, "Nickel Plate," Baltimore and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson and Chesapeake and Ohio, all off 2 to 3.

Midland Steel Products preferred broke 9 points, National Biscuit 6½, Mathieson Alkali 6, Commercial Solvents and Houston Oil 5 each and Woolworth, Radio, Pierce Arrow preferred and Youngstown Sheet and Tube sold down 3 to 4 points. U. S. Steel common sank to a new low on the current movement at 139¾, rallied to 141 and then fell back to the low price again by early afternoon.

Independent strength was shown by Porto Rican Tobacco B, Transue and Williams, Gold Dust, Standard Milling and Wright Aeronautical, all of which attained new peak prices for the year.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 4 points and soon sold about 3 to 7 points net lower under liquidation and southern selling.

Buying checked the decline around 19.11c for January, however, and the market rallied to about yesterday's closing figures before the end of the first hour on covering. Trading was fairly active, but on the whole, orders seemed to be evenly divided and declines were attributed chiefly to further evening up in advance of the government crop report.

Private cables said some heavy selling had been absorbed by shorts covering in Liverpool, with the trade waiting for the American crop report.

Liquidation became heavier toward the end of the first hour, active months selling 15 to 23 points net lower before business was suspended to receive the government crop report. The report, placing the yield at 12,780,000 bales proved almost exactly in line with expectations. It brought in a little buying, probably by interests who had thought higher figures possible, and there was an advance of about 25 points from the low levels of the morning, January selling up to 19.25c or 7 points net higher. This bulge seemed to meet resistance together with some southern or spot house selling, and the market weakened later, January selling off to 18.90c and with the general list showing net decline of 28 to 30 points at midday.

MEN

Would you rather remain in your present position with its limited opportunities or get into the fastest growing industry since automobiles. An industry where keeping pace with the industry means ever increasing each year—where over 80% of your acquaintances are prospects—where you will be judged by your record only—where opportunity is looking for you. Which it is, and if the above challenges the best in you and you are between 25 and 40 years of age, with a record of achievement in specialty selling back of you and now employed, we would like to hear from you. All then will be thoroughly trained in our line before going out. Give age, experience, past record and all details in first letter. All replies held in confidence. Write P 215, Sun-Telegraph.

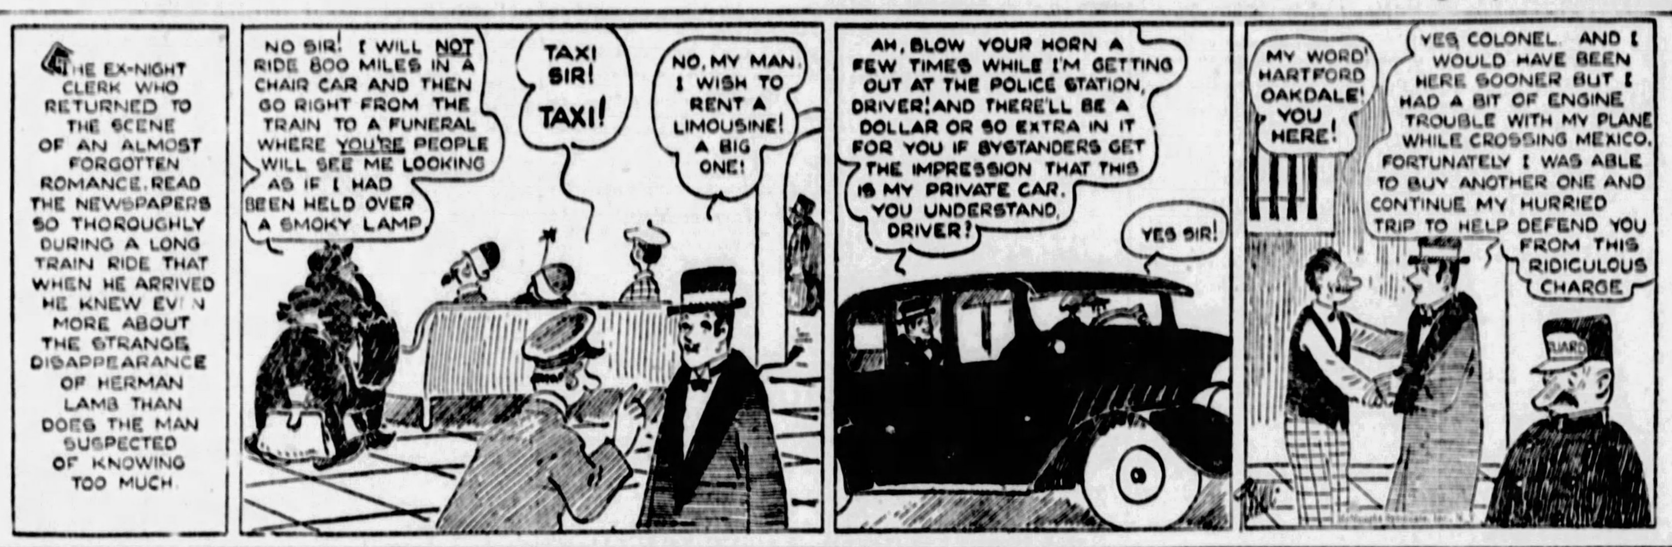
THE BUNGLE FAMILY — A Big Ray of Moonshine



THE EX-NIGHT CLERK WHO RETURNED TO THE SCENE OF AN ALMOST FORGOTTEN ROMANCE, READ THE NEWSPAPERS SO THOROUGHLY DURING A LONG TRAIN RIDE THAT WHEN HE ARRIVED HE KNEW EVEN MORE ABOUT THE STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF HERMAN LAMB THAN DOES THE MAN SUSPECTED OF KNOWING TOO MUCH.
NO SIR! I WILL NOT RIDE 800 MILES IN A CHAIR CAR AND THEN GO RIGHT FROM THE TRAIN TO A FUNERAL WHERE YOU'RE PEOPLE WILL SEE ME LOOKING AS IF I HAD BEEN HELD OVER A SMOKY LAMP.
TAXI SIR! TAXI!
NO, MY MAN. I WISH TO RENT A LIMOUSINE! A BIG ONE!
AH, BLOW YOUR HORN A FEW TIMES WHILE I'M GETTING OUT AT THE POLICE STATION, DRIVER! AND THERE'LL BE A DOLLAR OR SO EXTRA IN IT FOR YOU IF BYSTANDERS GET THE IMPRESSION THAT THIS IS MY PRIVATE CAR. YOU UNDERSTAND, DRIVER?
YES SIR!
MY WORD! HARTFORD OAKDALE! YOU HERE!
YES COLONEL. AND I WOULD HAVE BEEN HERE SOONER BUT I HAD A BIT OF ENGINE TROUBLE WITH MY PLANE WHILE CROSSING MEXICO. FORTUNATELY I WAS ABLE TO BUY ANOTHER ONE AND CONTINUE MY HURRIED TRIP TO HELP DEFEND YOU FROM THIS RIDICULOUS CHARGE

ELLA CINDERS — Hot On The Trail

BLACKIE, LET'S TELL HIM ALL ABOUT THE RADIUM MAP! HIS FACE LOOKS AS HONEST AS THE DAY IS LONG AT THE ARCTIC CIRCLE IN JUNE!
HE DOESN'T LOOK FROZEN-FACED TO ME — SURE, GO AHEAD AND TELL HIM! HE WON'T STICK US UP!
HERE'S A MAP THAT'S HAD IT'S FACE VALUE LIFTED — YOU HAVE IT'S TWIN SISTER, HAVEN'T YOU? IF WE GET THE REST, WE'LL ADD IT TO THIS AND THEN HAVE A FORTUNE TO DIVIDE! BUT YOU WON'T CHARGE US TOO MUCH, WILL YOU?
WHY, I BELIEVE I JUST SOLD THE OTHER HALF OF THIS MAP TO THE CURATOR OF THE COSMOPOLITAN MUSEUM OF NATURAL HISTORY! IF I STILL HAD IT, I WOULDN'T CHARGE YOU ANYTHING FOR IT. IT WAS GIVEN TO ME. BUT MUSEUMS CAN AFFORD TO PAY
OGEEGOSH! THANKS! IF THAT'S A REAL HUNCH YOU'VE GOT ABOUT THE MUSEUM, WE'LL BE ABLE TO PAY TOO!
HURRY, BLACKIE! REMEMBER, TWO HALVES MAKE A WHOLE — IF WE GET THAT OTHER HALF WE'LL MAKE A WHOLE LOT OF MONEY! LET'S HURRY!
HURRY? SAY IF I WENT THIS FAST ON WHEELS, I'D BE SOMETHING THAT SPEEDCOPS BLOW SIRENS AT!

FABLES IN SLANG — By GEORGE ADE

THE FABLE OF THE MAN WHO HAD A TRUE FRIEND TO STEER HIM ALONG —
ONCE A WELL-MEANING SOUL WAS HANDICAPPED BY A FRIEND WHO KNEW JUST HOW TO MANAGE PRIVATE AFFAIRS FOR SOMEONE ELSE —
THE VICTIM WAS TOLD HOW OFTEN HE NEEDED A DRINK WHEN HE HAD BUSINESS ENGAGEMENTS AND HOW TO INVEST HIS MONEY —
THE FRIEND MEANT WELL, BUT ONE DAY HE SELECTED THE GIRL THAT THE VICTIM WAS GOING TO MARRY — AND THE VICTIM DUCKED! — A POLICEMAN FOUND HIM HIDING AND ASKED "ARE YOU A FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE?" — "NO," WAS THE REPLY "THIS IS MERELY A CASE OF TOO MUCH FRIEND!"

BUGS BAER Says

ABOUT five years ago we said the six-day race would be ideal if the track was a straightaway.

Bicycle riding never will be a sport so long as hills have the right-of-way over weak ankles.

There is no doubt that the contest in Madison Square Garden is exciting. But it would be even more thrilling if all the riders didn't scoot in the same direction.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

The thing to do with this six-day race is to split the 30 riders up into two squads of 15.

Start the first 15 from east to west and then shove the second 15 off in the opposite direction.

Toss about six hundred pedestrians and jaywalkers into the saucer and allow them to wander at will.

Place a traffic cop at the four corners of the track. And then allow a dozen motorcycle policemen to chug after the riders.

Instead of handing out prizes dish up summonses for violations of traffic laws. You would have a real race when the 15 riders tried to lose the traffic cops.

There would be some real jams when a jaywalker tried to gain a lap on the Belgian-American team.

Even though the Bellevue-Ambulance team might be penalized for an imperfect pick-up, think of the excitement when the Interboro-Taxi team tried to cop a sneak on the green light and missed the entrance to the new Holland tunnel.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "THREE TYPES OF GOOD FELLOWS."

Some men are BORN regular
FELLOWS; These make good HUSBANDS
Whether APPRECIATED or not—USUALLY NOT!
OTHER men are born LOVERS,
These make MUSIC in the WORLD; they unconsciously play
The piper and WOMEN dance,
These PROBABLY are in the MINORITY,
And SOME men make the best
Of FRIENDS, These are the Men who have NO IMAGINATION
Or TOO MUCH.
They either lack PERSONALITY,
And so HAVE to serve CONTINUALLY in order to get ANY notice taken of THEM,
Or they have great PERSPICACITY
And SEE further than the end
Of the NOSE, These far-seeing Men are TOO SUBTLE to Be PLAIN REGULAR fellows, And TOO CRITICAL to be
O V E R W H E L M I N G L Y in love;
CONSEQUENTLY
They SELDOM marry,
WOMEN call them VAIN, Men
Think they are SHREWD,
ACTUALLY they are neither,
They are merely—CAUTIOUS,
LADIES, take your CHOICE!

"I'd like a book," said the man who had approached the librarian's pretty assistant. "Something deep, if you have it."

"Do you think this will be deep enough?" the girl asked. "It's 'Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.'"

Identified

A: "How did you recognize him?"
Z: "By my umbrella."

Her Preference

A woman remonstrated with her new maid for calling her "missus," and suggested "mum" as a substitute.

"No," replied the girl. "I couldn't do that. That's what I call my own mother; but I'd like to call you auntie."

A Great King, Piankhi

Of Pure Negro Blood, He Ruled the African Roost

HERE STANDS PIANKHI.

Many readers, white and colored, will be interested in the great Ethiopian King Piankhi, who ruled in Ethiopia more than 2,600 years ago.

As you will see by this picture, which shows him speaking in a temple, Piankhi adopted the Egyptian dress and manners.

The Kingdom of Ethiopia was south of Egypt as it stood then, a little way below the fourth cataract of the Nile, and about a thousand miles in a straight line south of the place where the Nile pours its waters into the Mediterranean.

Piankhi, a full-blooded African, is revealed by history as a powerful conqueror. On the ruins of one of his great temples a tablet describing his deeds was discovered in 1862.

Life in Piankhi's court imitated life in the court of Egypt, farther north.

Amon, the great god of the Egyptians, was also the chief god of Piankhi and his people.

Egypt in Piankhi's day was on the down grade, split into small kingdoms. Ethiopia, huge territory ruled by a line of powerful African monarchs, with great armies of well-trained black fighters, was THE power along the Nile, strong enough to invade the old civilization of the north.

Piankhi knew how to talk in the "grand manner." Half a victory did not satisfy him. He announced that "the heart of His Majesty was not satisfied therewith," and, said he, "I swear, as God loves me, that I will go north myself." He did, conquered wherever he went, taking his harem, many wives and more dubious females, with him.

When he had sailed down the Nile to the place where he wanted to fight, he would get off his boat, climb into his war chariot and fight in a way that would do honor to Jack Johnson on our own day.

He was kind-hearted, however, and when the whiter women from the court of Egypt came, his heart was touched. They threw themselves on the ground before Piankhi's black women, crying out, "We come to you, oh royal wives, royal daughters and royal sisters, and royal concubines, that you may appease the wrath of His Majesty."

Piankhi, addressing King Namlot, whom he conquered, knew how to use repetition artfully.

As King Namlot, begging for an armistice, lay humbly stretched on the ground in front of the black king, Piankhi said: "Who has led you astray?—who has led you astray?—who, then, has led you astray?—who has led you astray, that you risk your life by opposing me?"

The big black king nearly cried when he saw Egyptian horses almost starved to death in a city that he had besieged. When he came to another city he said, "Open your gates and you shall live; close them and you shall die." So they opened them.

Gone is Piankhi now, and his court and his wives and his great temples. Only a few ruins stand near the fourth cataract on the old Nile.

He was a mighty king, even if he did imitate the whiter Egyptians.

And another great Ethiopian king has left his features on the face of the mighty Sphinx, which is a Negro face.

Who knows what the Negro race might have been, had it not had through the ages to fight against the destructive force of the tropical sun? Who knows what it may become, as centuries roll by?

Taxes—And Economy

Taxes in this country have doubled in ten years. They now take a dime out of each dollar of income.

Public debt is growing even faster. The amount taken off the nation's war debt since peace came has been more than offset by increases in state and municipal debts.

Ten per cent of American city expenditure is for interest on borrowings.

Partly this has been due to the depreciated dollar, partly also to unavoidable needs arrested during the war.

But we are getting back to normal, and it is time to think how we can make the pennies count.

Experts say there is at least five hundred million dollars of preventable waste each year in the functioning of our various units of local government—money not stolen, but just eaten up in bad political organization or practice.

Hiring more men than are needed to do a given amount of work; having separate overheads for bureaus doing largely duplicate work; buying supplies without exacting scientific tests of quality—these are samples, visible almost everywhere.

Economy does not consist in baying against improvements. It consists in making the tax dollar earn its way.

More War? Perhaps

How Europe Fools Us

Mr. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, reminded his hearers in St. Louis that it was "only an Armistice that was signed" nine years ago.

The last war, says Mr. Spafford, did not end war, which unfortunately is true.

Fortunately, however, the world learned definitely that war does not PAY, no matter who wins. The conquerors may lose more than the vanquished. And, most important, High Finance knows that war is dangerous to itself. The last war laid an income tax as high as 60 per cent. In the next war there will be confiscation of capital. That will discourage war, for Finance has something to say about it.

War is particularly dangerous for the United States. Statesmen from Europe make fools of our imitation statesmen so easily. Mr. Spafford, referring to the famous Washington conference, says, "In 1922 we gave up 801,000 tons of new capital ships; Great Britain gave up 500,000 tons of old ships, and Japan 325,000 tons of similar old junk."

We cannot afford to be fooled in that fashion often. OUT of war, and out of European entanglements, should be our motto.

NOW STOP KICKIN' HIS DOG AROUN'!

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Horrible Words

WHEN I see in print the bastard verb "envisage," it makes me shrink, like the sight of a "thousand-legged worm," or a "hunting spider." And the verb "to stress," lately become so common with people whose only use for words is mechanical, is no less repellent.

There is no true excuse for the employment of these anomalous words. The excuse attempted is that they are convenient, furnishing new synonyms and making a vivid impression through their novelty. But English is already excessively rich in synonyms—as is proved by the draggled strings of words of similar meaning with which some of our novel writers are so fond of entangling their readers. There is hardly one of the new words that was needed to enrich the language, and most of them are objectionable in both looks and sound. They are the product of carelessness and of ignorance of the real resources of our English tongue. A good speaker or writer has a mental taste for words, which he can trust, if he has widely and discriminatively studied his language. He may even venture on innovations occasionally, but he will never expect such things to be accepted generally, and if they are accepted he may be more surprised than anybody.

Some of the products of the spelling reformers are as offensive as the worst specimen of ill-born verbs. Those reformers seem to think that revolutions in language can be made to order over night thought political revolutions that remake nations demand generations of preparation. But, in fact, the speech of men changes more slowly than their system of government. And when you trim and alter a word to suit your fancy of convenience, you should remember that you may thus be cutting away the roots of its history, leaving it standing like a girdled tree, deprived of that connection with its past which gave it its living flavor. These reformers, aware of the resistance that they invite, think it sagacious to deal out their new spellings by teaspoonfuls, but as these appear here and there in the letters of those who have swallowed them they produce the impression of a great field sprinkled with patches of stubble.

I am sorry to see that scientific men are very ready to join the crowd of the envisagers, stressers and spelling croppers. This may be a natural result of the relative neglect of language study in scientific departments, and yet there are many students of science who are also devoted readers of the best literature. It may be that we are drifting away from that keen appreciation of the beauty of words, both vocally and in their printed and written forms, which was once a marked characteristic of mental culture. If so the result will not redound to the glory of twentieth century civilization, however high that may stand on its marvelous record of mechanical achievement.

If we do not cultivate a jealous regard for the excellence of our language, it can not but deteriorate, and it would be a sad mistake to assume that the admission into it of ill-sounding and ugly words will have no effect upon its historic development or the influence that its present speakers and writers are to exert over future times.

Luck

A MAN buys a tract of land without thought of wealth beneath. A geologist finds oil or valuable minerals in its subsoil; outside enterprise develops them and the man, without contribution of thought or toil, becomes rich.

That is luck.

Another man thinks of a new idea, toils upon it, sacrifices for it, masters it, adds to civilization a great convenience, builds an industry in which thousands are employed. The originator becomes rich.

Is that luck? Not at all. It is intelligence, foresight, courage. It is the creative instinct usefully applied.

Dr. Jastrow, Wisconsin psychologist, thinks that what the world calls success is largely a matter of luck. The idea is cheering to the unsuccessful but it is not true.

Keep Hanging On

DON'T let any person or anything break your spirit.

You may have had hard luck and many breaks against you.

At times you may feel that there is no use trying to combat the drawbacks that face you.

But if you give up, cease trying, you will have further to come back when there is a change.

If you lose confidence you will not be in condition to take advantage of opportunities when they come your way.

None can knock you down and out so long as you have the feeling within that you can win out sometime, no matter what obstacles.

Looking ahead, you may not be able to see much encouragement.

But thousands have looked at just such a dark prospect and come through all right and on top.

Don't give up. Be ready to jump into the first opening that comes to you.

You can't make the harbor success, if you don't hang on and keep hanging on.

Wings

OH, THE gladness of wings that make summer days bright
As they drift and they lift with a flash of delight,
Wings that rival the rainbow in wonderful hues
And lend bloom to the flowers whose fragrance they choose!
Oh, the terror of wings in the height of the storm,
How they whirl and they swirl as with visible form;
Awful wings of the wind bending low tortured trees,
Awful wings of the tempest on mountainous seas!
Oh, the flutter of wings when the twilight shade creeps,
When the rose seeks repose and the daffodil sleeps,
As the garden grows dim and its incenses rise
On the wings of the eventide breeze to the skies!
Oh, the wonder of wings in the breath of the dawn
As the gloom and the doom of the night are withdrawn;
Wings of birds, wings of breeze, what a promise they bring
To the soul till it, too, soars on heaven-ward wing!

A FRIEND of mine.
HAD TOLD me the name.
* * *
OF A man who did.
HIS DENTAL work.
AND MY tooth had ached.
THE WHOLE night through.
AND IN the morning.
I TOOK the car.
* * *
AND WAS hurrying down.
TO THE dentist's shop.
AND A man ahead.
WAS DRIVING along.
WITHOUT any sign.
OF INTENTION to turn.
AND I blew my horn.
TO INDICATE.
* * *
I WAS going to pass.
AND 'T the moment.
I STARTED to do it.
* * *
THE MAN in front.
AND THERE came a sound.
OF STEEL on steel.
AND MY front bumper.
GOT ALL tangled up.
WITH HIS rear bumper.
AND WE both got out.
AND I said to the man.
"PERSONS LIKE you.
"SHOULD NOT be permitted.
"TO DRIVE a car."
AND HE said to me.
"AND PERSONS like you.
"WHO DON'T SEE signals.
"SHOULD BE punished likewise."
AND I said to him.
"WHAT DO YOU mean.
"I DON'T see signals?"
* * *
AND HE said to me.
"I HELD out my hand.
"TO INDICATE.
* * *
"I WAS going to turn."
* * *
AND I said to him.
* * *
"YOU CERTAINLY didn't."
AND HE said to me.
"I CERTAINLY did."
* * *
AND I said: "You didn't.
* * *
AND HE said: "I did."
AND REALIZING.
WE COULDN'T go on.
UNLESS I struck him.
OR HE struck me.
I GOT in my car.
AND BACKED away.
AND A half hour later.
I WAS in the chair.
* * *
IN THE dentist's shop.
AND HE was that fellow.
I'D HAD trouble with.
* * *
AND HE didn't know me.
WITHOUT my hat.
AND THE things he told me.
ABOUT MYSELF.
AND HOW I'd hit him.
AND HOW crazy I was.
AND THE snappy things.
HE HAD said to me.
* * *
I DIDN'T know whether.
TO SLAP his face.
OR JUST laugh in it.
SO I didn't do either.
I THANK you.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The last of the East Side's notorious gangsters passed with the pistoling of "Little Augie," several weeks ago. He died as he had lived, by the gun—joining such gangland worthies as Kid Dropper, Big Jack Zelig, Louis the Lump, Monk Eastman, and hosts of others.

Despite much sentimental sniveling, the East Side breathes freer. So long as these gunmen, usually primed with heroin, stalked through the crowded Ghetto, innocent lives of children and grown-ups were in danger. They blazed away from racing automobiles, often killing those who had done them no harm.

The gangster is praised for a single alleged virtue—and that is he never squeals. If shot down he seals his lips and takes his medicine. This loyalty to a gangland code is foolishly stressed. The gangster never squeals because he knows his only hope to live is in silence.

Honest merchants trying to raise families respectably have for years been terrorized by these underworld rats. They must pay protection money to live in a land they dreamed was free. They are slugged, robbed and often killed if they refuse.

The tragedy of the gangster is in his early environment. As a rule he is spawned by the tenement house gutters and learns to steal as naturally as he breathes fetid air. Society does not give him much of what is known in his world as "a break."

He acquires early hatred of law and order and "ganging a cop" is a youthful delight. Honest labor is anathema, and he soon learns he can live without it by joining a band of street criminals. All are spurred to daring by hope of becoming a leader.

Most gangsters have women whose earnings add to their income, although there have been some who married and whose wives knew nothing of their lives until their riddled corpses were brought home. Few live to the age of 30, and all die with their boots on or "burn" in the electric chair.

Thousands go through life with minor physical disfigurement that cause them unnecessary anguish. A novelist has become a recluse in Europe because of a slight facial blemish that would not receive a passing glance. A playwright will rarely appear in public because the tip end of a finger was shot away with the accidental discharge of a shotgun when a boy. A famous cartoonist has a slight limp since boyhood, and yet I have known him 10 years and did not notice it until he recently called attention to the difficulty. Yet it has long been a matter of extreme sensitiveness and kept him from the public.

This is not prohibition propaganda. It is the ghastly conclusion of a New York laboratory chemist. He told me: "New York's liquor is worse by far than ever. In the past six months I have analyzed perhaps 200 samples of liquor for personal friends who made their purchases from bootleggers supposed to be reputable. All samples, save one, which was merely colored water, contained deadly poison. If consumed even in moderate quantities over a period of a year any specimen would result in physical deterioration that would cause death." O, Mr. Nedick!

Two newspaper columnists—Bugs Baer and Heywood Broun—have tried out personal appearances on the stage without exactly rocking the theatrical firmament. Yet an agent is authority for the statement he has seven columnists in New York and other sections of the country who are anxious to lend themselves to the glorification of the stage.

* * *

Heywood Broun is a finished speaker and Bugs Baer has a ridiculous sense of comedy that will send a private audience or his reading public into gales of unrestrained laughter—but when they face a paid audience somehow you long for the trained seals or The Bounding McGuires. That is true of almost every columnist.

Oil—A Public Interest

By DR. FRANK CRANE

From the time a few short years ago when a scum was first observed on certain pools and streams to the present day, the petroleum business has made enormous strides.

It now represents billions of dollars and supports many vital industries.

One has only to stand on the street corner in the center of any of our large cities and observe the unceasing stream of motor cars to realize what the cessation of the oil supply would mean. All these cars would disappear over night, and the whole aspect of our civilization would change.

And this is not all of it. Oil burning steamers are somewhat in vogue now and there are battleships which burn oil. It would probably be impossible for air craft to use any other kind of fuel, as no substitute for gasoline light enough has been discovered.

The movement for the conservation of our oil supply therefore is not to be determined merely by the demands of the trade or the needs of those who are in it to make money, for the whole public is dependent upon it.

As far as we can see, the utilization of gasoline is increasing constantly. Bus systems are spreading throughout the country and one company announces a trans-continental bus service in the near future.

The airship industry is still in its infancy and airplanes are multiplying daily. There is no let-up to the production of automobiles. Countless new cars are produced every year.

All this depends fundamentally upon what is a precarious thing, after all, the supply of petroleum in the earth. There is no cock-sure prevention for the exhaustion of the supply. Whether it is a matter for the Federal Government to take up or whether it had better be left to the producers, experts alone can say.

But these gentlemen should be reminded that the public is interested in this matter as well as the individuals, and some means should be devised at once to conserve our fast-vanishing oil supply.

Five-Year Marriages

SUPPOSE you had to be re-elected every five years in order to stay married? Suppose, instead of acquiring a life deed to your spouse with the minister's blessing, you had to court your wife or win your husband all over again every 60 months? Would it make a difference in your marriage manners?

That's exactly what would happen if Judge Burnell's plan went into effect. According to him marriage should be:

"1—Contracted for a period of five years only.

"2—Renewable by mutual consent only, for a second similar period.

"3—Terminated by THE DESIRE OF ONE PARTY, OR BOTH.

"4—Terminated by divorce upon two grounds only—adultery and extreme cruelty.

"In case children were born to the union or property was amassed over which disputes arose, the principals would be subject to court decisions similar to the present alimony and custody hearings."

Consider the couples you know—how would such a law affect them?

There's grouchy Dan Weaver. Remember the Big Show Dan put on when he was courting his Eva? Remember how he used to bring her candy and flowers every Saturday and take her on picnics Sunday? Dan bought his first plus fours for those picnics. Never had cared much for clothes before, but Eva was such a dainty little thing that Dan became a regular bird of paradise in those anxious months when he was waiting for her "yes."

And his manners improved as much as his clothes. The boys down at the office hardly knew him. Cheerful, obliging—everyone wished that Dan's courting might go on forever. But it didn't. They were married—five years ago today. And now look at them.

Dan's still slouching around in the same old suit that he wore on his honeymoon, and his manners are as full of wrinkles as his suit. Same old grouch that he used to pack before he was married. Snaps at Eva, growls and peeves around the house. Yes, I suppose he loves her, but it would take a psychoanalyst to discover it. As for the flowers and candy and Sunday picnics—they stopped the week they were married.

Suppose Eva could say to Dan—"Well, your five years are up today and as a husband you've proved a wash-out. There's the door. Maybe you'll be elected on another party ticket but never again on mine."

Suppose Eva could say that, would it make Dan change his tactics? WOULD IT?

And there's Marion—Marion who was such a Beautiful Baby Doll before she was married. Remember how everyone raved over her in her wedding dress? Have you seen her lately? Slopping around the house in a dirty bungalow apron—sprawled out on the chaise lounge all day while the baby squalls and the dishes wait, unwashed. Dinner never on time—house never tidy—and if Jim kicks there's a tantrum. Suppose Marion had to make good on her job or lose it after five years—what then?

Ever wonder why some mistresses are so much more beloved than some Married Wives? Ever stop to speculate that it MIGHT be because they have to work harder to hold their jobs? Think it over.
